Learning to Die in the Anthropocene Roy Scranton,2015-09-07 In Learning to Die in the Anthropocene Roy Scranton draws on his experiences in Iraq to confront the grim realities of climate change The result is a fierce and provocative book Elizabeth Kolbert Pulitzer Prize winning author of The Sixth Extinction An Unnatural History Roy Scranton s Learning to Die in the Anthropocene presents without extraneous bullshit what we must do to survive on Earth It s a powerful useful and ultimately hopeful book that more than any other I ve read has the ability to change people s minds and create change For me it crystallizes and expresses what I ve been thinking about and trying to get a grasp on The economical way it does so with such clarity sets the book apart from most others on the subject Jeff VanderMeer author of the Southern Reach trilogy Roy Scranton lucidly articulates the depth of the climate crisis with an honesty that is all too rare then calls for a reimagined humanism that will help us meet our stormy future with as much decency as we can muster While I don t share his conclusions about the potential for social movements to drive ambitious mitigation this is a wise and important challenge from an elegant writer and original thinker A critical intervention Naomi Klein author of This Changes Everything Capitalism vs the Climate Concise elegant erudite heartfelt wise Amitav Ghosh author of Flood of Fire War veteran and journalist Roy Scranton combines memoir philosophy and science writing to craft one of the definitive documents of the modern era The Believer Best Books of 2015 Coming home from the war in Iraq US Army private Roy Scranton thought he d left the world of strife behind Then he watched as new calamities struck America heralding a threat far more dangerous than ISIS or Al Qaeda Hurricane Katrina Superstorm Sandy megadrought the shock and awe of global warming Our world is changing Rising seas spiking temperatures and extreme weather imperil global infrastructure crops and water supplies Conflict famine plagues and riots menace from every quarter From war stricken Baghdad to the melting Arctic human caused climate change poses a danger not only to political and economic stability but to civilization itself and to what it means to be human Our greatest enemy it

Teams for a New Generation Greg Robinson, Mark Rose, 2007
There has been much written about teams with an ongoing debate about the primacy of environment or dynamics as the most important element to effective teams Yet the need for groups to be able to consistently tap into the collective intelligence present in the team is more and more important This requires teams to move beyond cooperation goodwill and consensus and be able to challenge individual and collective assumptions to see new alternatives This book provides a simple but elegant model to understand how teams move past the mediocrity of consensus to innovative thinking that comes with Collective Learning Collective Learning occurs when teams become aware of their assumptions and it challenges them to create a new understanding of what is real and what is important When that happens lasting change can come from within the team There are four distinct abilities that must be present to provide the infrastructure for a group to learn collectively and here is the how to to dramatically increase team effectiveness This book is focused on how a facilitator can help groups and the individuals in those groups slow down the emotional and belief processes in order to create opportunities to choose responses rather than being on automatic pilot The purpose of the facilitator's effort is to move experiential learning beyond the traditional notion of teambuilding Teambuilding has become a catchall phrase for helping a group get more comfortable with one another and develop trust It is our opinion that to unlock the power of these experiential tools facilitators must think about developing two Meta skills Emotional Maturity and Critical Thinking Using experiential learning to develop the attitudes and skills to continually learn provides a real hope for creating fundamental change in the way people and groups interact
