

THE SIMPLE LIGHTING LED BUYING GUIDE

WHAT IS AN LED?

An LED (light emitting diode) is a modern, efficient lighting. The latest LEDs rival halogen bulbs for light quality but with loads of added benefits. LEDs are eco friendly, containing efficient, have an average lifespan of 25,000 hours and can save up to 90% in your energy costs!

ALL ABOUT THE BASE?

Generally, most people are surprised to find that there are quite so many different bulb fittings around. But this is a good thing. The most important bit is to choose the right one for your needs.

The ones below are the most common household bulbs. Take a look at your current bulb and compare to the pic to see what you need.

Now you know your fitting, either click on the relevant link below, or read on to find out more about choosing the perfect bulb...

AREN'T THE SHAPES ALL THE SAME?

Actually, no, they aren't. Although a lot about bulb shape does come down to the current base or fitting, the shape of the bulb can also affect the light it gives.

Each of the different shapes provides a slightly different spread and angle of light. Spotlights will cast a narrow, direct beam of light, whereas a golf bulb will cast a wider, more diffuse light.

It's also worth considering how the fitting will look even when off, some lamps have a decorative or artistic shape. So, if you're looking for a lamp that will look good when it's off, as well as when it's on, you'll want to consider the shape of the bulb.

WHAT'S A LUMEN?

The unfamiliar lumen can be off putting when deciding to switch to LED, but as legislation changes and more bulbs become available, it's the only option. It's a measure of the amount of light that a bulb produces.

Back when we all had incandescent bulbs, the most important factor was the wattage. Higher wattage meant brighter light. But with LEDs, it's the lumens that count. Below shows how many lumens you would want when switching. For example, if you have a 60W incandescent bulb, you would want a 800lm LED for the same brightness.

So, that's not too hard, but let's not forget the watts completely! Watts are still important when it comes to energy efficiency. The lower the wattage, the less energy it takes to run. ## DO I NEED TO KNOW ABOUT COLOUR TEMPERATURE?

Yes, you do! Colour temperature is another thing that is, for the most part, new to you. It's a measure of the colour of the light that a bulb gives. It's measured in Kelvin (K). The higher the number, the more blue the light is. The lower the number, the more yellow the light is.

A lot of people prefer the soft, artificial glow of incandescents. It's what we've used to and what we associate with feeling like home. A colour temperature of 2700K is a good choice for this. If you have a very modern and minimalist home, you may prefer a higher temperature, such as 5000K or 6000K.

"Daylight" refers to a light that is similar to a sunny day outside. Most people still find this a bit bright for in the home. Especially if you're a fan of cozy evenings in.

WHICH ROOM?

Now you've cracked the lumen, it's time to figure out what that means for you and how to choose the right LED bulb for you. For example, we recommend a warm white bulb for living areas such as the lounge or dining room.

Cool white bulbs are fab for functional rooms, such as the kitchen or bathroom, as the clear, bright light works better for task lighting and beauty.

If you're using multiple bulbs in one fitting, then we recommend a lumen rating of around 400lm per bulb. If you have just the one bulb in a hanging fixture, go for something a bit brighter, around the 500lm mark should do it.
