

The Roman Republic

Directions: Fill in the Roman Republic leadership positions below.

Consul The Consul was the most important leadership role in the Roman Republic. Consul was a one-year position. To keep one person from having too much power, Romans elected two Consuls together. The Consuls had to work together to make decisions for the Roman Republic. Consuls could take Rome to war, collect taxes, and make laws.	Senator Under the Consuls were the senators. A senator was a lifetime position. The Senate was an important group of men who helped the Consuls make decisions for Rome.
Tribunes The Plebeian Council could make laws and hold court hearings. Leaders elected to the Plebeian Council were called Tribunes. Tribunes had the power to reject rules or decrees made by the Senate.	Aediles Leaders in charge of taking care of all the public buildings in Rome were called Aediles. Aediles would often hold public festivals that were very popular with the people. As Aediles became more popular in Rome, they often moved up in the Roman government, becoming senators or even consuls.
Censors Censors were responsible for counting Roman citizens in a process called the census. Censors also helped with managing how much money the Roman republic had.	Governors Governors were leaders who ruled parts of the Roman Empire that were far away from the city of Rome. Roman Senators chose these governors. Governors collected taxes and also led the local army.

Orlin, 2002-01-01 The construction of a new temple in the Roman Republic was an event that illuminated key features of their political and religious systems Building a temple was for instance a way for a victorious general to proclaim his glory and for a magistrate to highlight his prestige but it was also a public service This book explores this relationship between the individual and the community and analyses the formal process by which a temple came to construction the vow the placing of a contract and the dedication as well as the importance of the Sibylline books use of war booty and the role played by the senate which Orlin argues is more significant than previously thought

Oakeshott on Rome and America Gene Callahan, 2012-07-04

The political systems of the Roman Republic were based almost entirely on tradition the way of the ancestors rather than on a written constitution While the founders of the American Republic looked to ancient Rome as a primary model for their enterprise nevertheless in line with the rationalist spirit of their age the American founders attempted to create a rational set of rules that would guide the conduct of American politics namely the US Constitution These two examples offer a striking case of the ideal types famously delineated by Michael Oakeshott in Rationalism in Politics and elsewhere between politics as a practice grounded in tradition and politics as a system based on principles flowing from abstract reasoning This book explores how the histories of the two republics can help us to understand Oakeshott's claims about rational versus traditional politics. Through examining such issues we may come to understand better not only Oakeshott's critique of rationalism but also modern constitutional theory issues in the design of the European Union and aspects of the revival of republicanism.
