

Chapter 2

The Chemistry of Biology

Atoms, Bonds, and Molecules

Matter: all tangible materials that occupy space and have mass

Atom: a tiny particle that cannot be subdivided into smaller substances without losing its properties

Properties of atoms:

- Protons (p^+): positively charged, found in the nucleus
- Neutrons (n^0): no charge, also found in the nucleus
- Electrons (e^-): negatively charged, surround the nucleus

Electron Orbitals and Shells

Atomic number: number of protons

Atomic mass: number of protons and neutrons

Orbital:

- Pathways in which electrons rotate around the nucleus

Models of Atomic Structure

↳ image

Major Elements of Life and Their Primary

Characteristics 1

Element:

- An atom with a characteristic atomic structure and predictable chemical behavior

Bonds and Molecules 1

Molecule:

- A chemical substance that results from the combination of two or more atoms.
- O_2 , N_2

Compound:

- A molecule composed of two or more different elements
- H_2O , $C_6H_{12}O_6$

Bonds and Molecules 2

Chemical bonds:

- Result when two or more atoms share, donate (lose), or accept (gain) electrons

Covalent Bonds and Polarity 1

Covalent bonds:

- Form between atoms that share electrons rather than donating or receiving them
- Single covalent bonds share a pair of electrons (H_2)
- Double covalent bonds share two pairs of electrons and are more rigid

Henkel, 2017-07-28

Tests of significance have been a key tool in the research kit of behavioral scientists for nearly fifty years but their widespread and uncritical use has recently led to a rising volume of controversy about their usefulness This book gathers the central papers in this continuing debate brings the issues into clear focus points out practical problems and philosophical pitfalls involved in using the tests and provides a benchmark from which further analysis can proceed The papers deal with some of the basic philosophy of science mathematical and statistical assumptions connected with significance tests and the problems of the interpretation of test results but the work is essentially non technical in its emphasis The collection succeeds in raising a variety of questions about the value of the tests taken together the questions present a strong case for vital reform in test use if not for their total abandonment in research The book is designed for practicing researchers those not extensively trained in mathematics and statistics that must nevertheless regularly decide if and how tests of significance are to be used and for those training for research While controversy has been centered in sociology and psychology and the book will be especially useful to researchers and students in those fields its importance is great across the spectrum of the scientific disciplines in which statistical procedures are essential notably political science economics and the other social sciences education and many biological fields as well Denton E Morrison is professor Department of Sociology Michigan State University Ramon E Henkel is associate professor emeritus Department of Sociology University of Maryland He teaches as part of the graduate faculty

Essentials of Biology Holt Rinehart & Winston, 1998 The Myth of Achievement Tests James J. Heckman, John Eric Humphries, Tim Kautz, 2014-01-14 Achievement tests play an important role in modern societies They are used to evaluate schools to assign students to tracks within schools and to identify weaknesses in student knowledge The GED is an achievement test used to grant the status of high school graduate to anyone who passes it GED recipients currently account for 12 percent of all high school credentials issued each year in the United States But do achievement tests predict success in life The Myth of Achievement Tests shows that achievement tests like the GED fail to measure important life skills James J Heckman John Eric Humphries Tim Kautz and a group of scholars offer an in depth exploration of how the GED came to be used throughout the United States and why our reliance on it is dangerous Drawing on decades of research the authors show that while GED recipients score as well on achievement tests as high school graduates who do not enroll in college high school graduates vastly outperform GED recipients in terms of their earnings employment opportunities educational attainment and health The authors show that the differences in success between GED recipients and high school graduates are driven by character skills Achievement tests like the GED do not adequately capture character skills like conscientiousness perseverance sociability and curiosity These skills are important in predicting a variety of life outcomes They can be measured and they can be taught Using the GED as a case study the authors explore what achievement tests miss and show the dangers of an educational system based on them They call for a return to an emphasis on character in our schools our systems of accountability and our national dialogue Contributors Eric Grodsky University of Wisconsin Madison Andrew Halpern Manners Indiana University Bloomington Paul A LaFontaine Federal Communications Commission Janice H Laurence Temple University Lois M Quinn University of Wisconsin Milwaukee Pedro L Rodr guez Institute of Advanced Studies in Administration John Robert Warren University of Minnesota Twin Cities Forages, Volume 2 Kenneth J.
