On Friday, September 1, 2000, I began retyping the day's NEW YORK TIMES word for word, letter for letter, from the upper left-hand corner to the lower right-hand corner, page by page. With these words, Kenneth Goldsmith embarked upon a project which he termed uncreative writing: that is, uncreativity as a constraint-based process, uncreativity as a creative practice. By typing page upon page, making no distinction between article, editorial, and advertisement, disregarding all typographic and graphical treatments, Goldsmith levels the daily newspaper. DAY is a monument to the ephemeral, comprised of yesterday's news, a fleeting moment concretized, captured, then reframed into the discourse of literature.
