Population Growth and Rapid Urbanization in the Developing World Benna, Umar G., Garba, Shaibu

Bala, 2016-06-07 As the global population continues to boom particularly in the developing countries it has become necessary to find ways to handle this increase through various policy tools that address population growth and urbanization problems. The urbanization process has both potentials issues as well as opportunities to move societies forward that need to be exploited. Population Growth and Rapid Urbanization in the Developing World examines trends, challenges, issues and strategies adopted by developing countries in the face of population growth and rapid urbanization and its impact on urban environments. The book explores patterns of population growth and urbanization, use of different governance approaches in addressing challenges as well as different tools and systems of appropriate allocation to address issues. The book is a comprehensive reference for academicians, students, practitioners, professionals, managers, urban planners and government officials.

The Palgrave Encyclopedia of Urban and Regional Futures Robert C. Brears, 2023-01-13 While urban settlements are the drivers of the global economy and centres of learning, culture and innovation and nations rely on competitive dynamic regions for their economic, social and environmental objectives, urban centres and regions face a myriad of challenges that impact the ways in which people live and work, create wealth and interact and connect with places. Rapid urbanisation is resulting in urban sprawl, rising emissions, urban poverty and high unemployment rates, housing affordability issues, lack of urban investment, low urban financial and governance capacities, rising inequality and urban crimes, environmental degradation, increasing vulnerability to natural disasters and so forth. At the regional level, low employment, low wage growth, scarce financial resources, climate change, waste and pollution and rising urban peri-urban competition etc are impacting the ability of regions to meet socio-economic development goals while protecting biodiversity. The response to these challenges has typically been the application of inadequate or piecemeal solutions, often as a result of fragmented decision making and competing priorities with numerous economic, environmental and social consequences. In response, there is a growing movement towards viewing cities and regions as complex and sociotechnical in nature, with people and communities interacting with one another and with objects such as roads, buildings, transport links etc within a range of urban and regional settings or contexts. This comprehensive MRW will provide readers with expert interdisciplinary knowledge on how urban centres and regions in locations of varying climates, lifestyles, income levels and stages of development are creating synergies and reducing trade offs in the development of resilient, resource efficient, environmentally friendly, liveable, socially equitable, integrated and technology enabled centres and regions.
