Nutrition and HIV Saurabh Mehta, Julia Finkelstein, 2018-05-15 The world continues to lose more than a million lives each year to the HIV epidemic and nearly two million individuals were infected with HIV in 2017 alone The new Sustainable Development Goals adopted by countries of the United Nations in September 2015 include a commitment to end the AIDS epidemic by 2030 Considerable emphasis on prevention of new infections and treatment of those living with HIV will be needed to make this goal achievable With nearly 37 million people now living with HIV it is a communicable disease that behaves like a noncommunicable disease Nutritional management is integral to comprehensive HIV care and treatment Improved nutritional status and weight gain can increase recovery and strength of individuals living with HIV AIDS improve dietary diversity and caloric intake and improve quality of life This book highlights evidence based research linking nutrition and HIV and identifies research gaps to inform the development of guidelines and policies for the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals A comprehensive approach that includes nutritional interventions is likely to maximize the benefit of antiretroviral therapy in preventing HIV disease progression and other adverse outcomes in HIV infected men and women Modification of nutritional status has been shown to enhance the quality of life of those suffering HIV AIDS both physically in terms of improved body mass index and immunological markers and psychologically by improving symptoms of depression While the primary focus for those infected should remain on antiretroviral treatment and increasing its availability and coverage improvement of nutritional status plays a complementary role in the management of HIV infection

Playing to Strengths Sanjay Kathuria, Priya Mathur, 2019-12-03 It is widely agreed that over the past decade accelerating infrastructure investments in India's North Eastern Region NER and neighboring countries along with connectivity agreements with Bangladesh hold immense promise for unlocking NER's economic potential Other global trends such as the growing incomes and consumer awareness in India and neighboring countries a rising preference for fresh healthy safe environmentally friendly and socially responsible products the growing role of services in manufacturing and increasing demand for skilled resources are also very favorable for NER Together these developments can help NER showcase its strengths in agriculture and services thereby developing value chains in these sectors which will lead to sustainable better paying job opportunities for the people of NER In this context the World Bank in consultation with stakeholders government private sector and academia analyzed two cross cutting constraints that are encountered across all value chains and sectors in NER connectivity and logistics and product standards and quality infrastructure To ground the policy in specific contexts the team studied four sectors in depth fruits and vegetables spices bamboo and related products and medical tourism Playing to Strengths lays out an initial policy framework for NER that integrates demand and supply and shows that even with a low base in manufacturing NER can leverage its strengths in agriculture and services to step up its growth However implementing this framework will require a different approach to doing business compared with the existing ecosystem and its associated value chains which are mostly geared to local and or price conscious consumers In capitalizing on its advantages NER will not only accelerate its own development but also will play an increasingly critical role in the government of India s Act East policy
