Two major reasons populations go from large to small are: the bottleneck and founder effect.

Q2. Describe gene flow and give at least one example of it that you understand.

Q3. Natural selection is the only mechanism that consistently leads to adaptive evolution. For each of the FIVE types of natural selection, a) define it, b) give at least one example of it that will help you understand and remember it c) draw a graph if appropriate

a. Directional selection – Natural selection in which individuals at one end of the phenotypic range survive and reproduce more successfully than do other individuals

Common when a population's environment changes or when members of a population migrate to a different habitat

b. Stabilizing Selection – Natural selection that favours intermediate variants by acting against extreme phenotypes

Example: Babies who are born too small or too large have a smaller probability of survival

Reduces extreme phenotypes and increases the mean size for a particular character

c. Disruptive Selection – Natural selection in which individuals on both extremes of a phenotypic range are favored over intermediate phenotypes

Example: African black-bellied finches who have small beaks are able to feed on soft seeds and those with large beaks are able to feed on hard seeds; they are more likely to survive than those with medium-sized beaks
