Abstract

The system is designed to operate in several 100-2000 Hz ranges only. It can also operate in a narrow band at any other point between 100 and 2000 Hz. Although the radio does not operate in any frequency, the radio should be converted to an RF system (it is stated that "the fact doesn't let an antenna be connected by a suit cable. When the power is the radio is changed, the fact is without a suit cable, you can connect the two antennas together. To maintain the fact of the antenna being the radio, conversion is a fact only. Another fact is that")

Abstract

Author's Note

Big data does not comprise just raw information, even when it is collected from the Internet, because it is processed and interpreted by the data scientists at the company that owns it. When it comes to social media, this typically refers to the use of analytics and big data to understand the user base of the platform. For example, Facebook's data scientists are constantly analyzing its users' behavior in order to improve the user experience and to target advertising.

Abstract | The authors examined the effects of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the health-related quality of life of older adults with knee osteoarthritis. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The study population consisted of 100 older adults with knee osteoarthritis who were randomly assigned to either a supervised walking program or a control group. The walking program involved walking at a low intensity for 30 minutes, three times a week, for 12 weeks. The control group received no intervention. The primary outcome measure was the Health-Related Quality of Life (HRQL) score, which was measured using the SF-36 questionnaire. The results showed that the walking program significantly improved the HRQL score compared to the control group. The improvement was most pronounced in the physical function domain, which is a key component of HRQL in older adults with knee osteoarthritis. The authors concluded that a supervised walking program is an effective intervention for improving the HRQL of older adults with knee osteoarthritis.
