The Objective Monitoring of Physical Activity: Contributions of Accelerometry to Epidemiology, Exercise Science and Rehabilitation Roy J. Shephard, Catrine Tudor-Locke, 2016-08-02 This book examines the new knowledge that has been gained from the objective monitoring of habitual physical activity by means of pedometers and accelerometers It reviews current advances in the technology of activity monitoring and details advantages of objective monitors relative to physical activity questionnaires It points to continuing gaps in knowledge and explores the potential for further advances in the design of objective monitoring devices Epidemiologists have studied relationships between questionnaire assessments of habitual physical activity and various medical conditions for some seventy years In general they have observed positive associations between regular exercise and good health but because of inherent limitations in the reliability and accuracy of physical activity questionnaires optimal exercise recommendations for the prevention and treatment of disease have remained unclear Inexpensive pedometers and accelerometers now offer the epidemiologist the potential to collect relatively precisely graded and objective information on the volume intensity and patterns of effort that people are undertaking to relate this data to past and future health experience and to establish dose response relationships between physical activity and the various components of health Such information is important both in assessing the causal nature of the observed associations and in establishing evidence based recommendations concerning the minimal levels of daily physical activity needed to maintain good health

Interfaces and Us Zachary Kaiser, 2023-01-12 We re all familiar with smart TVs making suggestions on our future watching real world exercise data being transferred into stats and infographics on our workout apps and turning up our home heating before we start our commute but how does this world of technological interfaces affect our actions and perceptions of self When society relies on computer models and their interfaces to explain and predict everything from love to geopolitical conflicts our own behaviour and choices are artificially changed Zachary Kaiser explores the harmful social consequences of this idea balanced against speed and ease for the user and how design practice and education can respond positively Concepts of freedom vs convenience Smart objects and manipulation Real world information transformed into data Technology s decisions made on our behalf

Needy Media Stephen Monteiro, 2015-10-16 What makes our portable networked personal media devices smartphones tablets smartwatches so irresistible Reacting to our touch voice or gaze seizing and keeping our attention with sounds vibrations and screen prompts these objects construct an animated intimacy that builds trust and emotional dependence Needy Media explores how features such as face recognition awareness sensors and touchscreens have developed and intersected tying them to key concepts of psychology language and the body Surveying products and practices across a half century Stephen Monteiro argues that the appeal is as much about how media devices behave as it is about the information they convey Monteiro traces a symbiotic overreliance a neediness between users and devices fostered by personalized aspects of digital materiality The physical and emotional bonds that emerge he argues not only cast our devices as loyal companions adaptable to our needs and idiosyncrasies they also facilitate the corporate harvesting of massive amounts of personal data in the name of making technology more friendly intuitive and individualized Raising important questions about privacy and power Needy Media seeks answers in the complex and sensitive relationship between interface and body a coupling that makes the networked object both an essential psychological presence and a lingering concern for our sense of self

Adsensory Financialisation Pamela Odih, 2016-09-23 Adsensory technology presupposes a neoliberal entrepreneurial self as an integral feature of its biopolitical financialisation of healthcare regimes According to Michel Foucault neoliberalism is indebted to the endeavour of its self disciplined subjects investing human capital in a self regulated entrepreneurial pursuit of responsible healthcare and well being Primarily informed by social network analytics and virtual ethnographic observations this book identifies the biopolitical basis of adsensory technologies It argues that a paradoxical feature of adsensory technologies dissimulating that there is nothing Jean Baudrillard is the proliferation of risk This is because the dissimulation of nothing opens up the possibility that everything can be a risk in so far as the type of event it falls under can be treated according to the principles of insurance technology Francois Ewald Adsensory wearable technologies are called upon as a strategy of deterrence Jean Baudrillard to indemnify capitalism's production of signs which dissimulate their simulation In a context in which much that was certain now feigns its own existence the insurance professed by adsensory technologies provides for an unrealisable guarantee against indefinable unknowable risks Based also on case studies of European Court of Justice personal finance insurance rulings this book engages critically with the neoliberal construct of the entrepreneurial lifestyle insurance subject Social network analytics are utilised here to map bio technology onto neoliberal regimes of financialised well being and healthcare provision In so doing the book situates adsensory technologies within the marketising healthcare management programmes that are currently aligning the neoliberal reengineering of health and well being citizenship with the biopolitical healthcare financialisation of populations Paradoxically in their endeavour to actor network virtual well being health communities adsensory technologies proliferate the individuating marketised conditions of neoliberal self regulating entrepreneurialism This gives rise to aleatory materialist dialectics of financialised surveillance far exceeding the regulatory time and space modalities of Foucauldian panoptics and Mathiesen synoptics Adsensory technologies are integral to a seismic transformation in the cultural economies of time presently eliding digital advertising and insurantal technologies Axiomatic with the synchronic times of the adsensory technologies valorised by lifestyle insurance much riskier asynchronic embodied times transgressively dissimilating the limits of financialisation are beginning to emerge

Physical Activity: a Promising Modifiable Behavior to Protect Brain, Cognition, and Mental Health Across the Lifespan María Rodríguez-Ayllón, Yaira Barranco-Ruiz, Jose Mora-Gonzalez, Darío Bellón, 2025-08-20 Physical activity is a promising modifiable behavior to protect brain, cognition, and mental health across the lifespan. Levels of physical activity are alarmingly low around the world. This is an ominous trend as numerous studies support the importance of engaging in physical activity for improving and/or maintaining a good health status across the lifespan. An emerging field of research also highlights the positive effect of physical activity on brain health, in particular for the promotion of cognitive functioning across the lifespan and the prevention of mental disorders in later life. According to the World Health Organization (WHO), brain health can be defined as the state of brain functioning across cognitive, sensory, social, emotional, behavioral, and motor domains, allowing a person to realize their full potential over the life course, irrespective of the presence or absence of disorders. Therefore, the concept of brain health includes not only measurements of biological markers of the brain (e.g., structural brain morphology) but also psychological well-being (e.g., depressive symptoms and well being e g self esteem indicators perceptions of quality of life and cognitive function e g attention and memory
