Script Culture and the American Screenplay Kevin Alexander Boon, 2008-01-10 By considering the screenplay as a literary object worthy of critical inquiry this volume breaks new ground in film studies Though the history of the screenplay is as long and rich as the history of film itself critics and scholars have neglected it as a topic of serious research Script Culture and the American Screenplay treats the screenplay as a literary work in its own right presenting analyses of screenplays from a variety of frameworks including feminism Marxism structuralism philosophy and psychology In distancing the text of screenplays from the on screen performance typically associated with them Kevin Alexander Boon expands the scope of film studies into exciting new territory with this volume Script Culture and the American Screenplay is divided into two parts Part 1 provides a general background for screenplay studies tracing the evolution of the screenplay from the early shot lists and continuities of George M. Seldes and Thomas Harper Ince to the more detailed narratives of contemporary works Part 2 offers specific primarily thematic critical examinations of screenplays along with discussions of the original screenplay and the screenplay adaptation In all Boon explains that screenplay criticism distinguishes itself from traditional film studies in three major ways The primary focus of screenplay criticism is on the screenplay rather than the film the focus of screenplay studies is on the screenwriter rather than the director and screenplay criticism like literary criticism is written to illuminate a reader's understanding of the text Boon demonstrates that whether we are concerned with aesthetics and identifying rules for distinguishing the literary from the non literary or whether we align ourselves with more contemporary theories which recognize texts as distinguishable in their inter relationships and marked difference screenplays constitute a rich cache of works worthy of critical examination Film scholars as well as students of film creative writing and literary studies will appreciate this singular volume

Authorship in Film Adaptation Jack Boozer, 2009-06-03 Authoring a film adaptation of a literary source not only requires a media conversion but also a transformation as a result of the differing dramatic demands of cinema The most critical central step in this transformation of a literary source to the screen is the writing of the screenplay The screenplay usually serves to recruit producers director and actors to attract capital investment and to give focus to the conception and production of the film project Often undergoing multiple revisions prior to production the screenplay represents the crucial decisions of writer and director that will determine how and to what end the film will imitate or depart from its original source

Authorship in Film Adaptation is an accessible provocative text that opens up new areas of discussion on the central process of adaptation surrounding the screenplay and screenwriter director collaboration In contrast to narrow binary comparisons of literary source text and film the twelve essays in this collection also give attention to the underappreciated role of the screenplay and film pre production that can signal the primary intention for a film Divided into four parts this collection looks first at the role of Hollywood s activist producers and major auteurs such as Hitchcock and Kubrick as they worked with screenwriters to formulate their audio visual goals The second part offers case studies of Devil in a Blue Dress and The Sweet Hereafter for which the directors wrote their own adapted screenplays Considering the variety of writer director working relationships that are possible Part III focuses on adaptations that alter genre time and place and Part IV investigates adaptations that alter stories of romance sexuality and ethnicity

Adaptations Deborah Cartmell, Imelda Whelehan, 2022 Adaptations Critical and Primary Sources is a three volume reference resource that brings together over 80 landmark texts in adaptation studies Volume One covers the history of adaptation studies by plotting the prehistory of the field beginning with Vachel Lindsay s classic Art of the Moving Picture 1915 through Virginia Woolf s classic essay on The Cinema through to some of the most important critical and theoretical interventions up until the 1990s when the area really emerges as a critical force in the academy Volume Two collects essays from the last 25 years showing how the scholarly legacy laid out in Volume One still has a profound impact on adaptation studies today while charting the process of critical and theoretical maturation This volume shows how adaptations studies has outgrown its contested place in the gap of film and literary studies and how its interventions transcend disciplinary perspectives across the arts and humanities Volume Three covers key case studies such as Christine Geraghty s take on adapting Westerns Ian Inglis understanding of the transformation of music into movies and Eckart Voigts concept on Jane Austen and participatory culture 0With topics ranging from the limitations of the novel to adapting stage to screen contributions from a wide range of international scholars film critics and novelists combine to make Adaptations Critical and Primary Sources an original overview of critical debates today Cartmell and Whelehan introduce each excerpt and offer a critical overview of the collected work the rationale for its inclusion and suggestions for further reading

The art of the observer David MacDougall, 2022-11-15 The art of the observer is a personal guide to documentary filmmaking based on the author s years of pioneering work in the fields of ethnographic and documentary cinema It stands in sharp contrast to books of academic film criticism and handbooks on visual research methods being based extensively on concrete examples from the author s own filmmaking experience The book places particular emphasis on observational filmmaking and the ways in which this approach is distinct from other forms of documentary It offers both practical insights and reflections on what it means in both emotional and intellectual terms to attempt to represent the lives of others The book makes clear that documentary cinema is not simply a matter of recording reality but of artfully organising the filmmaker's observations in ways that reveal the complex patterns of social life
