

Hold the piston rod with the end of a special strap wrench, illustrated on page 10, and disassemble the joint end. If the strap wrench slips, sprinkle a little kerosene on the belt.

NOTE: The strap wrench can be obtained through your John Deere dealer.

Piston rods have been installed at the factory with "Lentor" coating applied to prevent them from corroding liners during operation. If the rod end cannot be removed in the normal manner, apply grease to the piston rod with the strap wrench, and heat the rod end until the end is loose.

CAUTION: Do not heat the rod end more than necessary. Excessive heat may damage the piston rod.

Removing control valve

Remove the outside sleeve of the control valve cover.

Disconnect the right lower line from the control valve, and cover the hose with tape that lines entering the system.

Remove the valve control lever by loosening the pin nut and disconnecting the lever from the handle yoke.

Remove three bolts and nuts holding the control valve to the engine block, and remove the control valve.

It is recommended that you use the correct valve and fittings when you replace the control valve. If you do not, the engine may be damaged.

Disassembling control lever linkage

Remove the cap screw holding the handle joint to the joint base. Slide the clip with the pin out from under the handle and disconnect the ball joint from the handle.

Disconnect the first speed slide link and remove the handle joint and bearing. Disconnect the roll pin holding the handle slide to the joint base.

Slide the cover on vertically. Take great care when working around machines.

Remove the cap screw holding the handle joint to the joint base. Slide the clip with the pin out from under the handle and disconnect the ball joint from the handle.

Remove the linkage adjustment for handle and foot or handle roll pins. Make sure none of the cottages have stripped threads. Remove the ball joints, making sure the clip roller stops in its proper position. Replace nuts or broken parts.

Assembling control lever linkage

Install the first speed lever between the control speed and the first speed with the wheel in the back valve connecting leg, and with a cap screw in the front side leg. Place a lock washer and nut on the stud.

Tighten the nut against the nut or cap screw at this time.
