John Adams The Man From Massachusetts:

John Adams's Republic Richard Alan Ryerson, 2016-09-15 VIII Redefining the Republican Tradition 1784 1787 IX John Adams's Republic in Republican America 1787 1800 X A Retrospective Retirement 1801 1826 Conclusion Memory and Desire in America's Republican Revolution Notes An Essay on Sources A Chronology of John Adams's Political Study and Writings Index A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Z John Adams Hourly History, 2016-12-26 John Adams The drama of the life of the second president of the United States has been stirring chronicles both in print and on television Yet the life of John Adams is so rich in history emotion power and tragedy that no medium can entirely contain its essence Reading the story of his life is to be introduced to a nation new and untried that would rise to prominence in no small part due to his legacy of leadership Inside you will read about John Adams the Farmer's Son John Adams Begins His Career The Man from Massachusetts Adams in Philadelphia Destination Europe An Experiment in Nationhood President A Friendship Restored John Adams was no bland hero he had his personal blemishes and he made his share of mistakes He was born in the Massachusetts Bay Colony and died a citizen of the United States Along with his wife the impressive Abigail Smith Adams the minister's daughter whose lack of formal education did not hinder her intellectual advances John Adams sired a political dynasty that served the United States well John Adams Clifford Smyth, 1931 The Man of the People Nathaniel C. Green, 2020-10-23 Donald Trump's election has forced the United States to reckon with not only the political power of the presidency but also how he and his supporters have used the office to advance their shared vision of America one that is avowedly nationalist and unrepentantly rooted in nativism and white supremacy It might be easy to attribute this dark vision and the presidency's immense power to reflect and reinforce it to the singular character of one particular president but to do so this book tells us would be to ignore the critical role the American public played in making the president the man of the people in the nation's earliest decades Beginning with the public debate over whether to ratify the Constitution in 1787 and concluding with Andrew Jackson's own contentious presidency Nathaniel C Green traces the origins of our conception of the president as the ultimate American the exemplar of our collective national values morals and character The public divisiveness over the presidency in these earliest years he contends forged the office into an incomparable symbol of an emerging American nationalism that cast white Americans as dissenters lovers of liberty who were willing to mobilize against tyranny in all its forms from foreign governments to black enemies and Indian savages even as it fomented partisan division that belied the promise of unity the presidency symbolized With testimony from private letters diaries newspapers and bills Green documents the shaping of the disturbingly nationalistic vision that has given the presidency its symbolic power This argument is about a different time than our own And yet it shows how this time so often revered as a mythic founding era from which America has precipitously declined was in fact the birthplace of the president-centered nationalism that still defines the contours of politics to this day The lessons of The Man of the People contextualize the political turmoil surrounding the presidency today Never in modern US history have those lessons been more badly needed Biographical Sketches of Eminent American Statesmen, with Speeches, Addresses and Letters Benjamin Franklin Perry, 1887

The United States Carl Becker, 2018-04-17 According to Carl Becker if the framers of the Constitution could come back to earth and see what the federal government is doing to day they would all agree that this monstrous thing was no child of theirs for to day the federal government exercises as a matter of course powers which they never dreamed of This prescient statement rings as true today as it did when Becker wrote An Experiment in Democracy nearly eighty years ago This American classic is an engaging gracefully rendered piece of historical literature as well as a non ideological meditation on the meaning of America Carl Becker's ruminations are invariably provocative notably wise and remarkably enduring He clearly believed in what has been called a living Constitution one that must be adapted to changing circumstances and imperatives in America life and his faith in democracy seems to have strengthened as the decades progressed In his new introduction Michael Kammen places this American classic in historical perspective Kammen sees Becker as more than an archival historian but rather as a master of the creative synthesis looking at familiar sources in fresh ways and developing new points of view that were frequently revisionist and on occasion radically arresting Much has changed between 1920 and the present but Carl Becker's sagacity persists just as his expository prose will continue to please a new generation of historians and students of American social history Carl Becker was the author of Kansas The Declaration of Independence A Study in the History of Political Ideas Modern History The Rise of a Democratic Scientific and Industrial Civilization Benjamin Franklin Everyman His Own Historian The Heavenly City of the Eighteenth Century Philosophers How New Will the Better World Be and Freedom and Responsibility in the American Way of Life The Military History of Ohio A. Parsons Stevens, 1885

The Life and Times of Francis Cabot Lowell, 1775-1817 Chaim M. Rosenberg, 2010-12-16 After the Revolutionary War despite political independence the United States still relied on other countries for manufactured goods Francis Cabot Lowell was one of the principal investors in building the India Wharf and the shops and warehouses close to Boston harbor His work was instrumental in establishing domestic industry for the United States and brought the Industrial Revolution to the United States From 1810 to the start of the War of 1812 he traveled through Great Britain where he saw the tremendous changes caused by the Industrial Revolution starting with cotton textiles On his return to the United States he focused on establishing a domestic textile industry to replace imported goods With his brother in law Patrick Tracy Jackson he built the Boston Manufacturing Company at Waltham America's first integrated mill With his star mechanic Paul Moody he developed a power loom and other machines suitable for local conditions The Life and Times of Francis Cabot Lowell 1775 1817 tells the story of this amazing man and the great success of the Boston Manufacturing Company which spurred the American industrial revolution Francis Cabot Lowell's method a detailed investment plan cheap raw materials and power a motivated labor force a sound marketing plan and above all modern technology became the standard for the American factory of the nineteenth century When Francis Cabot Lowell died his associates established America's first industrial city and named it Lowell in his honor Liberty Bell (ENHANCED eBook) Julia Hargrove, 2001-03-01 Chock full of interesting facts for students to discover about this unique and flawed American symbol of freedom and about the birth of the American nation

Thomas Jefferson's Image of New England Arthur Scherr, 2016-10-05 Writers often depict Thomas Jefferson as a narrow minded defender of states rights and Virginia's interests despite his authorship of the Declaration of Independence and vigorous defense of the young republic's sovereignty Some historians claim he was particularly hostile to the New England states whose Federalist electorate he regarded as enemies of his Democratic Republican Party This study of Jefferson's lifelong relationship with New England reveals him to be a consistent nationalist and friend of the region from his first visit to Boston in 1784 to his recruiting of Massachusetts scholars to teach at the University of Virginia His nationalist point of view is most evident where some historians claim to see it least in his opinions of the people and politics of New England He admired New Englanders Revolutionary patriotism especially that of his friend John Adams and considered their direct democracy and town meeting traditions a model for the rest of the Union The Freedom of Peaceful Action

Stuart K. Hayashi, 2014-04-23 The Freedom of Peaceful Action is the first installment of the trilogy The Nature of Liberty which makes an ethical philosophic case for individual liberty and the free market against calls for greater government regulation and control The trilogy makes a purely secular and nonreligious ethical case for the individual's rights to life liberty private property and the pursuit of happiness as championed by the U S Founding Fathers Inspired by such philosophic defenders of free enterprise as John Locke Herbert Spencer and Ayn Rand The Nature of Liberty shows that such individual rights are not imaginary or simply assertions but are institutions of great practical value making prosperity and happiness possible to the degree that society recognizes them The trilogy demonstrates the beneficence of the individual rights approach by citing important findings in the emerging science of evolutionary psychology Although the conclusions of evolutionary psychology have been long considered to be at odds with the philosophies of individual liberty and free markets The Nature of Liberty presents a reconciliation that reveals their ultimate compatibility as various important findings of evolutionary psychology being logically applied confirm much of what philosophic defenders of liberty have been saying for centuries Moreover proceeding from the viewpoint of Rand this work argues that the structure of society most conducive to practical human well being is commensurately the most moral and humane approach as well The trilogy's first installment The Freedom of Peaceful Action focuses on the secular philosophic foundation for a society based on individual rights

Starting from a defense of the efficacy of observational reason against criticisms from Immanuel Kant and Karl Popper it demonstrates how a philosophic position of individual liberty and free markets is the logical result of the consistent application of human reason to observing human nature This installment demonstrates that any political system that wishes for its citizens to thrive must take human nature into account and that an accounting of human nature reveals that a system of maximum liberty and property protection is the one most conducive to peace and human well being ABA Journal, 1958-08 The ABA Journal serves the legal profession Qualified recipients are lawyers and judges law students law librarians and associate members of the American Bar Association St. Nicholas Mary Mapes Dodge, 1909 St. Nicholas, 1886

Thomas Jefferson Wilson Jeremiah Moses, 2019-03-28 In Thomas Jefferson A Modern Prometheus Wilson Jeremiah Moses provides a critical assessment of Thomas Jefferson and the Jeffersonian influence Scholars of American history have long debated the legacy of Thomas Jefferson However Moses deviates from other interpretations by positioning himself within an older Federalist historiographic tradition offering vigorous and insightful commentary on Jefferson the man and the myth Moses specifically focuses on Jefferson's complexities and contradictions Measuring Jefferson's political accomplishments intellectual contributions moral character and other distinguishing traits against contemporaries like George Washington and Benjamin Franklin but also figures like Machiavelli and Frederick the Great Moses contends that Jefferson fell short of the greatness of others Yet amid his criticism of Jefferson Moses paints him as a cunning strategist an impressive intellectual and a consummate pragmatist who continually reformulated his ideas in a universe that he accurately recognized to be unstable capricious and treacherous History of American Political Thought Bryan-Paul Frost, Jeffrey Sikkenga, 2003-01-01 Revised and updated this long awaited second edition provides a comprehensive introduction to what the most thoughtful Americans have said about the American experience from the colonial period to the present The book examines the political thought of the most important American statesmen activists and writers across era and ideologies helping another generation of students scholars and citizens to understand more fully the meaning of America This new second edition of the book includes new essays on Walt Whitman Lyndon Baines Johnson Ronald Reagan and Barack Obama Significant revisions and additions have also been made to many of the original essays increasing the breadth and depth of the collection Merchant Sail William Armstrong Fairburn, 1945 National Republic, 1929 Reader's Guide to American History Peter J. Parish, 2013-06-17 There are so many books on so many aspects of the history of the United States offering such a wide variety of interpretations that students teachers scholars and librarians often need help and advice on how to find what they want The Reader's Guide to American History is designed to meet that need by adopting a new and constructive approach to the appreciation of this rich historiography Each of the 600 entries on topics in political social and economic history describes and evaluates some 6 to 12 books on the topic providing guidance to the reader on everything from broad surveys and interpretive works to specialized monographs The entries are devoted to events and individuals as well as broader themes and are written by a team of well over 200 contributors all scholars of American history
