Travellers, Merchants and Settlers in the Eastern Mediterranean, 11th-14th Centuries David Jacoby, 2023-05-31 This collection of studies the eighth by David Jacoby covers a period witnessing intensive geographic mobility across the Mediterranean illustrated by a growing number of Westerners engaging in pilgrimage crusade trading and shipping or else driven by sheer curiosity This movement also generated western settlement in the eastern Mediterranean region A complex encounter of Westerners with eastern Christians and the Muslim world occurred in crusader Acre the focus of two papers a major emporium it was also the scene of fierce rivalry between the Italian maritime powers The fall of the crusader states in 1291 put an end to western mobility in the Levant and required a restructuring of trade in the region The next five studies show how economic incentives promoted western settlement in the Byzantine provinces conquered by western forces during the Fourth Crusade and soon after Venice fulfilled a major function in Latin Constantinople from 1204 to 1261 The city's progressive economic recovery in that period paved the way for its role as transit station furthering western trade and colonization in the Black Sea region Venice had also a major impact on demographic and economic developments in Euboea located along the maritime route connecting Italy to Constantinople On the other hand military factors drove an army of western mercenaries to establish in central Greece a Catalan state which survived from 1311 to the 1380s

Indigenous People and Mobile Technologies Laurel Evelyn Dyson, Stephen Grant, Max Hendriks, 2015-10-05 In the rich tradition of mobile communication studies and new media this volume examines how mobile technologies are being embraced by Indigenous people all over the world As mobile phones have revolutionised society both in developed and developing countries so Indigenous people are using mobile devices to bring their communities into the twenty first century The explosion of mobile devices and applications in Indigenous communities addresses issues of isolation and building an environment for the learning and sharing of knowledge providing support for cultural and language revitalisation and offering the means for social and economic renewal This book explores how mobile technologies are overcoming disadvantage and the tyrannies of distance allowing benefits to flow directly to Indigenous people and bringing wide ranging changes to their lives It begins with general issues and theoretical perspectives followed by empirical case studies that include the establishment of Indigenous mobile networks and practices mobile technologies for social change and finally the ways in which mobile technology is being used to sustain Indigenous culture and language

Information Communication Technology and Poverty Alleviation Jack J. Barry, 2018-07-24 Despite global economic disparities recent years have seen rapid technological changes in developing countries as it is now common to see people across all levels of society with smartphones in their hands and computers in their homes However does access to Information Communication Technologies ICTs actually improve the day to day lives of low income citizens This book argues that access to the internet can help alleviate poverty improve development outcomes and is now vital for realizing many human rights This book posits that good governance is essential to the realization of inclusive pro poor development goals and puts forward policy recommendations that aim to mitigate the complex digital divide by employing governance as the primary actor In making his argument the author provides a quantitative analysis of developing countries conjoined with a targeted in depth study of Mexico This mixed method approach provides an intriguing case for how improvements in the quality of governance impacts both ICT penetration and poverty alleviation Overall the book challenges the neoliberal deterministic perspective that the open market will solve technology diffusion and argues instead that good governance is the lynchpin that creates conducive conditions for ICTs to make an impact on poverty alleviation In fact the digital divide should not be considered binary rather it is a multifaceted problem where income education and language all need to be considered to address it effectively This book will be useful for researchers students of development communication technologies and comparative politics as well as for development practitioners and policy makers with an interest in how modern technology is impacting the poor in the developing world

Electronic Media Norman J. Medoff, Barbara K. Kaye, 2016-12-01. Electronic Media: Then, Now and Later provides a synopsis of the beginnings of electronic media in broadcasting and the subsequent advancements into digital media. The Then, Now and Later approach focuses on how past innovations laid the groundwork for changing trends in technology, providing the opportunity and demand for evolution in both broadcasting and digital media. An updated companion website provides links to additional resources, chapter summaries, study guides and practice quizzes, instructor materials and more. This new edition features two new chapters: one on social media and one on choosing your entertainment and information experience. The Then, Now and Later thematic structure of the book helps instructors draw parallels and contrasts between media history and current events, which helps get students more engaged with the material. The book is known for its clear, concise, readable and engaging writing style, which students and instructors alike appreciate. The companion website is updated and offers materials for instructors, an IM PowerPoint slides and test bank.

A Post State-Centric Analysis of China-Africa Relations Edson Ziso, 2017-11-03. This book offers a new alternative to understanding the relationship between China and Africa. Here the author not only explores the changing nature of Ethiopia's internal politics as a result of Chinese investment and commercial links but also compellingly questions the existing state-centric macro or strategic investigation of China-Africa relations. By thoroughly reviewing and deploying the second image-reversed approach and the relational concept of state power analytical approaches, Ziso challenges the Western-centric Weberian conceptualization of state. This volume presents an eclectic approach to interpret the state transformation in Ethiopia in light of Chinese capital, arguing for a state-in-society framework which does not treat the state as a unitary black box. This analysis challenges the conventional binary staple which is often framed on whether China is the new imperialist power plundering Africa's resources or is Africa's historically all-weather friend. This volume offers an original contribution to knowledge on China's relations with Ethiopia in particular and with Africa in general.
