Higher Education Revolutions in the Gulf Fatima Badry,John Willoughby,2015-10-08 Over the past quarter century the people of the Arabian Peninsula have witnessed a revolutionary transformation in higher education In 1990 there were fewer than ten public universities that offered their Arabic language curricula in sex segregated settings to national citizens only In 2015 there are more than one hundred public semi public and private colleges and universities Most of these institutions are open to expatriates and national citizens a few offer gender integrated instruction and the language of instruction is much more likely to be in English than Arabic Higher Education Revolutions in the Gulf explores the reasons behind this dramatic growth It examines the causes of the sharp shift in educational practices and analyses how these new systems of higher education are regulated evaluating the extent to which the new universities and colleges are improving quality Questioning whether these educational changes can be sustained the book explores how the new curricula and language policies are aligned with official visions of the future Written by leading scholars in the field it draws upon their considerable experiences of teaching and doing research in the Arabian Gulf as well as their different disciplinary backgrounds linguistics and economics to provide a holistic and historically informed account of the emergence and viability of the Arabian Peninsula s higher education revolutions Offering a comprehensive critical assessment of education in the Gulf Arab states this book represents a significant contribution to the field and will be of interest to students and scholars of Middle East and Gulf Studies and essential for those focused on higher education

Region-Building in Africa Daniel H. Levine,Dawn Nagar,2016-05-19 This landmark book is the first of its kind to assess the challenges of African region building and regional integration across all five African sub regions and more than five decades of experience considering both political and economic aspects Leading scholars and practitioners come together to analyze a range of entwined topics including the theoretical underpinnings that have informed Africa s regional integration trajectory the political economy of integration including the sources of different waves of integration in pan Africanism and the reaction to neo liberal economic pressures the complexities of integration in a context of weak states and the informal regionalization that often occurs in borderlands the increasing salience of Africa s relationships with rising extra regional economic powers including China and India and comparative lessons from non African regional blocs including the EU ASEAN and the Southern Common Market A core argument of this book running through all chapters is that region building must be recognized as a political project as much as if not more than an economic one successful region building in Africa will need to include the complex political tasks of strengthening state capacity including states capacity as developmental states that can actively engage in economic planning resolving long standing conflicts over resources and political dominance improving democratic governance and developing trans national political structures that are legitimate and inclusive Black British Intellectuals and Education Paul Warmington, 2014-02-24 Ask any moderately interested Briton to name a black intellectual and chances are the response will be an American name Malcolm X or Barack Obama Toni Morrison or Cornel West Yet Britain has its own robust black intellectual traditions and its own master teachers among them C L R James Claudia Jones Ambalavaner Sivanandan Stuart Hall and Paul Gilroy However while in the USA black public intellectuals are an embedded if often embattled feature of national life black British thinkers remain routinely marginalized Black British Intellectuals and Education counters this neglect by exploring histories of race education and social justice through the work of black British public intellectuals academics educators and campaigners The book provides a critical history of diverse currents in black British intellectual production from the eighteenth century through post war migration and into the post multicultural present focusing on the sometimes hidden impacts of black thinkers on education and social justice Firstly it argues that black British thinkers have helped fundamentally to shape educational policy practice and philosophy particularly in the post war period Secondly it suggests that education has been one of the key spaces in which the mass consciousness of being black and British has emerged and a key site in which black British intellectual positions have been defined and differentiated Chapters explore the early development of black British intellectual life from the slave narratives to the anti colonial movements of the early twentieth century how African Caribbean and Asian communities began to organize against racial inequalities in schooling in the post Windrush era of the 1950s and 60s how from out of these grassroots struggles black intellectuals and activists of the 1970s 80s and 90s developed radical critiques of education youth and structural racism the influence of multiculturalism black cultural studies and black feminism on education current developments in black British educational work including post racial approaches Critical Race Theory and black social conservatism Black British Intellectuals and Education will be of key relevance to undergraduates postgraduates and academics engaged in research on race ethnicity education social justice and cultural studies
