Second language assessment is ubiquitous. It has found its way from education into questions about access to professions and migration. This volume focuses on the main debates and research advances in second language assessment in the last fifty years or so, showing the influence of linguistics, politics, philosophy, psychology, sociology, and psychometrics. There are four parts which, when taken together, address the principles and practices of second language assessment while considering its impact on society. Read separately, each part addresses a different aspect of the field. Part I deals with the conceptual foundations of second language assessment with chapters on the purposes of assessment and standards and frameworks as well as matters of scoring, quality assurance, and test validation. Part II addresses the theory and practice of assessing different second language skills, including aspects like intercultural competence and fluency. Part III examines the challenges and opportunities of second language assessment in a range of contexts. In addition to chapters on second language assessment on a national scale, there are chapters on learning-oriented assessment as well as the uses of second language assessment in the workplace and for migration. Part IV examines a selection of important issues in the field that deserve attention. These include the alignment of language examinations to external frameworks, the increasing use of technology to both deliver and score second language tests, the responsibilities associated with assessing test takers with special needs, the concept of voice in second language assessment, and assessment literacy for teachers and other test and score users.

The second edition of Teaching English as a Foreign or Second Language includes a wider range of examples to coincide with a variety of teaching contexts, from K-12 schools to university intensive language programs and refugee programs. It is also updated with discussions of technology throughout and it considers ways in which technology can be used in teaching language skills. Sources for further study are included in each chapter and in the appendixes Second Language Writing Instruction in Global Contexts Lysa Seloni, Sarah Henderson Lee, 2019-10-11. It pushes the boundaries of teacher education by specifically examining the development of teacher literacy in writing in under represented L2 writing contexts and re envisions L2 writing teacher education that is contextually and culturally situated moving away from the uncritical embracement of Western based writing pedagogies It explores and expands on writing teacher education how language teachers come to understand their own writing practices and instruction and what their related experiences are in non English dominant contexts across the globe Chapter 4 is free to download as an open access publication under a CC BY NC ND licence You can access it here <https://zenodo.org/record/7096127/files/YmCsHbMLcs> 12
