5.1 EXTRACT B

[Phase Mamant's house. A Jewish girl arrives looking for a room to rent.]

LULU: You're just Jewish.
MINDQUE: Yeah, I brought you here. I give you dresses, I take you to breakfast, you're my princess.
What else do you want?
MINDQUE: I want that Jewish girl out.
She's out of my house so I can get my spirit off. I don't bring you from your shack so you can complain.
LULU: I like her. I stared at her face all night. It glowed in the dark. It made me think of the line in this poem, 'a head of golden (saffron)'. I need help with this homework.
MINDQUE: I'll help you.
LULU: What do you know – you're just an American's 'petite girl'.
MINDQUE: To give you a good idea (sister), how can you let her stay here? She doesn't belong here, man. She's a European. Europeans don't live in Sophocleans, it's a native location.
It's a beautiful suburb – no fences, no supermarket, ja, and this house is open. It's big and airy, she stays, Lulu, she's got guts. I need her. She's not shy, how many others are there that shy?
There's that white woman living with the police sergeant in Orlando.
LULU: Regina Brooks.
MINDQUE: Ja, she's right.
LULU: And there's that African girl living with the Ottomans in May Street.
MINDQUE: I think she's a native.
MINDQUE: A relative?
LULU: Ja, a relative.

English First Additional Language P2 Table Of Contents 2014:

Dissecting the function of networks underpinning language repetition Matthew A Lambon Lambon Ralph, Marcelo L Berthier, 2014-12-17 In the 19th century ground breaking observations on aphasia by Broca and Wernicke suggested that language function depends on the activity of the cerebral cortex At the same time Wernicke and Lichtheim also elaborated the first large scale network model of language which incorporated long range and short range transcortical connections white matter pathways in language processing The arcuate fasciculus dorsal stream was traditionally viewed as the major language pathway for repetition but scientists also envisioned that white matter tracts travelling through the insular cortex ventral stream and transcortical connections may take part in language processing Modern cognitive neuroscience has provided tools including neuroimaging which allow the in vivo examination of short and long distance white matter pathways binding cortical areas essential for verbal repetition However this state of the art on the neural correlates of language repetition has revealed contradictory findings with some researchers defending the role of the dorsal and ventral streams whereas others argue that only cortical hubs Sylvian parieto temporal cortex Spt are crucially relevant An integrative approach would conceive that the interaction between these structures is essential for verbal repetition For instance different sectors of the cerebral cortex e g Spt inferior frontal gyrus anterior insula act as hubs dedicated to short term storage of verbal information or articulatory planning and these areas in turn interact through forward and backward white matter projections Importantly white matter pathways should not be considered mere cable like connections as changes in their microstructural properties correlate with focal cortical activity during language processing tasks Despite considerable progress many outstanding questions await response The articles in this Research Topic tackle many different and critical new questions including 1 how white matter pathways instantiate dialogues between different cortical language areas 2 what are the specific roles of different white matter pathways in language functions in normal and pathological conditions 3 what are the language consequences of discrete damage to branches of the dorsal and ventral streams 4 what are the consequences e g release from inhibition of damage to the left white matter pathways in contralateral ones and viceversa 5 how these pathways are reorganised after brain injury 5 can the involvement sparing of white matter pathways be used in outcome prediction and treatment response and 5 can the microstructure of white matter pathways be remodelled with intensive rehabilitation training or biological approaches This Research Topic includes original studies and opinion and review articles which describe new data as well as provocative and insightful interpretations of the recent literature on the role of white matter pathways in verbal repetition in normal and pathological conditions A brief highlight summary of each is provided below

In Their Own Words C. Christine Fair, 2018-12-15 This path breaking volume reveals a little known aspect of how Lashkar e Tayyaba a jihadist terrorist group functions in Pakistan and beyond by translating and commenting upon a range of publications produced and disseminated by Dar ul Andlus the publishing wing of LeT Only a fraction of LeT s cadres ever see battle most of them are despatched on nation wide prozelytising dawa missions to convert Pakistanis to their particular interpretation of Islam in support of which LeT has developed a sophisticated propagandist literature This canon of Islamist texts is the most popular and potent weapon in LeT s arsenal and its scrutiny affords insights into how and who the group recruits LeT s justification for jihad its vision of itself in global and regional politics the enemies LeT identifies and the allies it cultivates and how and where it conducts its operations Particular attention is paid to the role that LeT assigns to women by examining those writings which heap extravagant praise upon the mothers of aspirant jihadis who bless their operations and martyrdom It is only by understanding LeT s domestic functions as set out in these texts that one can begin to appreciate why Pakistan so fiercely supports it despite mounting international pressure to disband the group
