performance training of the ANS may cause improvements in symbolic math performance and the ANS and symbolic number processing may share a common neural underpinning However recently several theories and empirical data cast doubt on the role of the ANS in symbolic math processing This e book aims to advance our understanding of the underlying mechanisms of the overlap between the ANS and mathematics Informational Texts in Pre-Kindergarten through Grade-Three Classrooms Elaine M. overall impact on the way teachers teach and students learn Standardized testing makes understanding students strengths and weaknesses more difficult and class time spent on testing consumes scarce time and attention needed to support the success of all students further disadvantaging ELLs students with exceptionalities low income and racially minoritized students

Abstract Mathematical Cognition Wolfgang Grodd,Philippe Chassy,2016-08-09 Despite the importance of mathematics in our educational systems little is known about how abstract mathematical thinking emerges Under the uniting thread of mathematical development we hope to connect researchers from various backgrounds to provide an integrated view of abstract mathematical cognition Much progress has been made in the last 20 years on how numeracy is acquired Experimental psychology has brought to light the fact that numerical cognition stems from spatial cognition The findings from neuroimaging and single cell recording experiments converge to show that numerical representations take place in the intraparietal sulcus Further research has demonstrated that supplementary neural networks might be recruited to carry out subtasks for example the retrieval of arithmetic facts is done by the angular gyrus Now that the neural networks in charge of basic mathematical cognition are identified we can move onto the stage where we seek to understand how these basics skills are used to support the acquisition and use of abstract mathematical concepts

Mathematics (Education) in the Information Age Stacy A. Costa,Marcel Danesi,Dragana Martinovic,2020-12-10 This book brings together ideas from experts in cognitive science mathematics and mathematics education to discuss these issues and to present research on how mathematics and its learning and teaching are evolving in the Information Age. Given the ever broadening trends in Artificial Intelligence and the processing of information generally, the aim is to assess their implications for how math is evolving and how math should now be taught to a generation that has been reared in the Information Age. It will also look at the ever spreading assumption that human intelligence may not be unique, an idea that dovetails with current philosophies of mind such as posthumanism and transhumanism. The role of technology in human evolution has become critical in the contemporary world. Therefore a subgoal of this book is to illuminate how humans now use their sophisticated technologies to chart cognitive and social progress. Given the interdisciplinary nature of the chapters, this will be of interest to all kinds of readers from mathematicians themselves working increasingly with computer scientists to cognitive scientists who carry out research on mathematics cognition and teachers of mathematics in a classroom.

If Einstein Ran the Schools Thomas Armstrong Ph.D., 2019-10-11 Many world class thinkers and creators have been concerned about the state of education in the United States. Discover their thoughts on how children really learn and what teachers must do to optimally tap children's latent abilities. During the last three decades education reformers have pushed standardized testing and policies like No Child Left Behind and Common Core to improve test scores and proficiency in basic skills. However during this period that author Thomas Armstrong calls the miseducation of America, a number of troubling trends have surfaced including a decrease in creative thinking scores among children in kindergarten through third grade. Rather than focus on what's wrong with the education system that has produced these outcomes, Armstrong lays out what creative thinkers know about how children should be educated. In an extended thought experiment he asks what would happen if we turned the reins of educational policy over not to the politicians and educational bureaucrats but to eminent thinkers and creators like Albert Einstein, Pablo Picasso, Martin Luther King Jr, Rachel Carson, Doris Lessing, Jane Goodall, and other seminal culture builders. What might they say about the best way to educate a child? If Einstein Ran the Schools suggests that the answers to this intriguing question should guide future efforts to reform our nation's schools.

Mental State Understanding: Individual Differences in Typical and Atypical Development Daniela Bulgarelli, Anne Henning, Paola Molina, 2017-09-13 The current book addresses the development of mental state understanding in children with typical and atypical population and reports new suggestions about the way to evaluate it and to support it through training. The presented frame is multifaceted. In respect to typical populations, the role of maternal reflective functioning, language communication and educational contexts has been deepened and the association with internalizing/externalizing behaviors, performances in spatial tasks and pragmatics has been addressed as well. As to atypical populations, deficits in mental states understanding are reported for children with different developmental disorders or impairments as the agenesis of the corpus callosum, Down Syndrome, preterm birth, Autism Spectrum Disorder, hearing impairment and personality difficulties such as anxiety. Overall, the papers collected in our book allow a better understanding of the mechanisms influencing mental state understanding and the effects of mental state comprehension on development

Touch Screen Tablets Touching Children's Lives Joanne Tarasuik, Gabrielle Strouse, Jordy Kaufman, 2018-02-28 Touch screen tablets have greatly expanded the technology accessible to preschoolers toddlers and even infants given that they do not require the fine motor skills required for using traditional computers Many parents and educators wish to make evidence based decisions regarding young children's technology use yet technological advancements continue to occur faster than researchers can keep up with. Accordingly, despite touch screen tablets entering society more than 5 years ago we are in the infancy of research concerning interactive media and children. The topic has gained traction in the past couple of years. For example, theoretical papers have discussed how interactive media activities differ from physical toys and passive media (Christakis 2014) and how educational apps development should utilise the four pillars of learning (Hirsh-Pasek et al 2015). Yet there has been little experimental research published on young children and touch screen use.
