Psychomotor Symptomatology in Psychiatric Illnesses Manuel Morrens, Sebastian Walther, 2015-12-10 Psychomotor symptoms are those symptoms that are characterized by deficits in the initiation execution and monitoring of movements such as psychomotor slowing catatonia neurological soft signs NSS reduction in motor activity or extrapyramidal symptoms EPS These symptoms have not always received the attention they deserve although they can be observed in a wide range of psychiatric illnesses including mood disorders psychotic disorders anxiety disorders pervasive developmental disorders and personality disorders Nevertheless these symptoms seem to have prognostic value on clinical and functional outcome in several pathologies In the late 19th century the founding fathers of modern psychiatry including Kahlbaum Wernicke Kraepelin and Bleuler had a strong focus on psychomotor abnormalities in their description and definitions of psychiatric illnesses and systematically recognized these as core features of several psychiatric pathologies Nevertheless emphasis on these symptoms has reduced substantially since the emergence of psychopharmacology given the association between antipsychotics or antidepressants and medication induced motor deficits This has resulted in the general idea that most if not all psychomotor deficits were merely side effects of their treatment rather than intrinsic features of the illness Yet the last two decades a renewed interest in these deficits can be observed and has yielded an exponential growth of research into these psychomotor symptoms in several psychiatric illnesses This recent evolution is also reflected in the increased appreciation of these symptoms in the DSM 5 As a result of this increased focus new insights into the clinical and demographical presentation the etiology the course the prognostic value as well as treatment aspects of psychomotor symptomatology in different illnesses has emerged Still many new questions arise from these findings This research topic is comprised of all types of contributions original research reviews and opinion piece with a focus on psychomotor symptomatology in a psychiatric illness especially research focusing on one or more of the following topics the clinical presentation of the psychomotor syndrome the course through the illness the diagnostical specificity of the syndrome the underlying neurobiological or neuropsychological processes new assessment techniques pharmacological or non pharmacological treatment strategies

Pursuing quality education in Physical and Rehabilitation Medicine Francesca Gimigliano, Maria Gabriella Ceravolo, Jorge Lains, 2023-08-15 High quality rehabilitation care represents a constitutive element of health systems worldwide The harmonization of staff education both at the undergraduate and postgraduate level is a key element for ensuring the highest standard of rehabilitation care International bodies like the UEMS Board for Physical and Rehabilitation Medicine PRM or the International Society for PRM have already delivered regulatory documents setting standards in postgraduate PRM education The implementation of such rules is to be validated worldwide with special attention to low and middle income countries This Research Topic aims to stimulate awareness in the scientific community especially for those involved in postgraduate education and policy making decisions It will highlight the need for developing competency based education as a powerful mechanism to align education and training with health system priorities This holds particular value for resource limited countries where the knowledge and skills of rehabilitation doctors need to reflect not only the population's health profile but also the strengths and weaknesses e.g. workforce gaps and maldistributions of the health system This goal can be achieved through sharing experiences between those who have engaged themselves in the process of program development curriculum design and competency based education in rehabilitation Over the last 25 years the number of papers addressing the issue of residency education in PRM has exponentially increased testifying the interest towards the role of rehabilitation and more specifically of the PRM doctors as leaders of the rehabilitation team
