Undermining Racial Justice Matthew Johnson, 2020-04-15 Over the last sixty years administrators on college campuses nationwide have responded to black campus activists by making racial inclusion and inequality compatible This bold argument is at the center of Matthew Johnson s powerful and controversial book Focusing on the University of Michigan often a key talking point in national debates about racial justice thanks to the contentious Gratz v Bollinger 2003 Supreme Court case Johnson argues that UM leaders incorporated black student dissent selectively into the institution s policies practices and values This strategy was used to prevent activism from disrupting the institutional priorities that campus leaders deemed more important than racial justice Despite knowing that racial disparities would likely continue Johnson demonstrates that these administrators improbably saw themselves as champions of racial equity What Johnson contends in Undermining Racial Justice is not that good intentions resulted in unforeseen negative consequences but that the people who created and maintained racial inequities at premier institutions of higher education across the United States firmly believed they had good intentions in spite of all the evidence to the contrary The case of the University of Michigan fits into a broader pattern at elite colleges and universities and is a cautionary tale for all in higher education As Matthew Johnson illustrates inclusion has always been a secondary priority and as a result the policies of the late 1970s and 1980s ushered in a new and enduring era of racial retrenchment on campuses nationwide The Secret Horsepower Race Calum E. Douglas, 2020-12-02 The piston engines that powered Second World War fighters the men who designed them and the secret intelligence work carried out by both Britain and Germany would determine the outcome of the first global air war Advanced jet engines may have been in development but every militarily significant air battle was fought by piston engined fighters Whoever designed the most powerful piston engines would win air superiority and with it the ability to dictate the course of the war as a whole This is the never before told story of a high tech race hidden behind the closed doors of design offices and intelligence agencies to create the war's best fighter engine Using the fruits of extensive research in archives around the world together with the previously unpublished memoirs of fighter engine designers author Calum E Douglas tells the story of a desperate contest between the world's best engineers the Secret Horsepower Race Airships Iver P. Cooper, 2025-05-15 Many people may know about the blazing crash of the Hindenburg in 1937 but are possibly unaware that it had made 62 flights before its final journey including one transporting author Leslie Charteris creator of The Saint The disaster however did not end the airship era blimps escorted convoys during World War II and were a part of air defense systems in the 1950s and 1960s Airships still fly today and new models are in the construction phase This book examines this branch of aviation history delving into the science and engineering of airships and their design flaws weather difficulties and operational errors The chapters focus on function lift propulsion materials ground handling and so forth The book concludes with speculations about future airship designs and missions Children of the Northern Forest Jamie Sayen, 2023-10-31 This no holds barred narrative of the failure of conservation in northern New England's forests envisions a wilder more equitable lower carbon future for forest dependent communities Jamie Sayen approaches the story of northern New England's undeveloped forests from the viewpoints of the previously unheard the forest and the nonhuman species it sustains the First Peoples and in more recent times the disenfranchised human voices of the forest including those of loggers mill workers and citizens who like Henry David Thoreau wish to speak a kind word for nature From 1988 to 2016 paper companies sold their timberlands and closed seventeen paper mills in northern New England Policy makers ceded veto power to large absentee landowners who tried to preserve the status quo by demanding additional tax cuts and other subsidies for economic elites They vetoed measures designed to restore and preserve forest health at present about half of the former industrial forests are classified as degraded and the regional economy continues to be trapped in low value commodity markets This book operates as a case study of how a rural resource region can respond to a global economy responsible for climate change habitat loss and degradation and environmental injustice Sayen offers a blueprint for restoring vast wildlands and transitioning to a lower carbon high value adding local economy while protecting the natural rights of humans nonhumans and unborn generations
