Humanized Mice Tatsuji Nomura,Takeshi Watanabe,Sonoko Habu,2008-03-11 The term humanized mouse in this text refers to a mouse in which human tissues and cells have been transplanted and show the same biological function as they do in the human body That is the physiological properties and functions of transplanted human tissues and cells can be analyzed in the mouse instead of using a living human body It should therefore be possible to study the pathophysiology and treatment of human diseases in mice with good reproducibility Thus the humanized mouse can be used as a potent tool in both basic and clinical research in the future The development of appropriate immunodeficient mice has been indispensable in the creation of the humanized mouse which has been achieved through many years of efforts by several laboratories The first stage on the road to the humanized mouse was the report on nude mice by Isaacson and Cattanch in 1962 Thereafter nude mice were studied in detail by Falanagan and in 1968 Pantelouris found that these mice have no thymus gland which suggested that the mice lack transplan tion immunity against xenografts such as human hematopoietic stem cells At the Nude Mouse Workshops organized by Regard Povlsen Nomura and colleagues that were held nine times between 1972 and 1997 the possibility of creating a humanized mouse using nude mice was extensively examined The results however showed that certain human cancers can be engrafted in nude mice but unfortunately engraftment of normal human tissue was almost impossible
