The Big Hop David Rooney,2025-06-03 The inspiring story of a pathbreaking 1919 flight and the courageous fliers who risked their lives to make aviation history In 1919 in Newfoundland four teams of aviators came from Britain to compete in the Big Hop an audacious race to be the first to fly nonstop across the Atlantic Ocean One pair of competitors was forced to abandon the journey halfway and two pairs never made it into the air Only one team after a death defying sixteen hour flight made it to Ireland Celebrated on both continents

the transatlantic contest offered a surge of inspiration and a welcome distraction to a public reeling from the Great War and the influenza pandemic But the seven airmen who made the attempt were quickly forgotten their achievement overshadowed by the solo Atlantic flights of Charles Lindbergh and Amelia Earhart years later In The Big Hop David Rooney grants the pioneering aviators of 1919 the spotlight they deserve From Harry Hawker the pilot who as a young man had watched Houdini fly over his native Australia to the engineer Ted Brown a US citizen who joined the Royal Flying Corps Rooney traces the lives of the unassuming men who performed extraordinary acts in the sky Mining evocative first person accounts and aviation archives Rooney also follows the participants journeys learning to fly on flimsy airplanes made of timber struts and varnished fabric surviving the bloodiest war that Europe had ever yet seen and battling faulty coolant systems severe storms and extreme fatigue while attempting the Atlantic Rooney transports readers to the world in which the great contest took place and traces the rise of aviation to its daredevil peak in the early decades of the twentieth century Recounting a deeply moving adventure The Big Hop explores why flights like these matter and why we take to the skies

The Schneider Trophy Air Races Jerry Murland, 2021-09-15 The history of the Schneider Trophy is the history of aircraft development When Jacques Schneider devised and inaugurated the Coupe d Aviation Maritime race for seaplanes in 1913 no one could have predicted the profound effect the Series would have on aircraft design and aeronautical development not to mention world history Howard Pixton s 1914 victory in a Sopwith Tabloid biplane surprisingly surpassed the performance of monoplanes and other manufacturers turned back to biplanes During The Great War aerial combat was almost entirely conducted by biplanes with their low landing speeds rapid climb rates and maneuverability Post war the Races resumed in 1920 The American Curtiss racing aircraft set the pattern for the 1920s making way for Harold Mitchell s Supermarines in the 1930 s Having won the 1927 race at Venice Mitchell developed his ground breaking aircraft into the iconic Spitfire powered by the Rolls Royce Merlin engine This new generation of British fighter aircraft were to play a decisive role in defeating the Luftwaffe and thwarting the Nazis invasion plans This is a fascinating account of the air race series that had a huge influence on the development of flight

The Dawn of the Drone Steve Mills, 2019-12-27 A slice of largely forgotten military history a fascinating exploration of some magnificent men and their flying machines The Sunday Post In the dark days of World War I when flying machines radio and electronics were infant technologies the first remotely controlled experimental aircraft took to the skies and unmanned radio controlled 40 foot high speed Motor Torpedo Boats ploughed the seas in Britain Developed by the British Army s Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Navy these prototype weapons stemmed from an early form of television demonstrated before the war by Prof A M Low The remotecontrol systems for these aircraft and boats were invented at RFC Secret Experimental Works commanded by Prof Low which was part of the organization of back room boys in the Munitions Inventions Department These audacious projects led to the hundreds of remotely controlled Queen Bee aerial targets in the 1930s and hence to all the machines that we now call drones Starting well before WWI and for the lucky ones extending well beyond the lives of Archibald Low and many of his contemporaries were extraordinary as were the times they lived through. They were around for the first epic aircraft flights and with the aid of the very technologies that had enabled the development of drones they saw air travel transformed from the precarious to the routine. It is astonishing that the origins of the first drones are not common knowledge in Britain and that the achievement of these maverick inventors is not commemorated. A focused and engaging look at one arena of behind-the-scenes scientific research and the larger-than-life personalities who populated it. Booklist The Man Who Took the Rap Peter John Dye, 2018-10-15 This is the first biography of Sir Robert Brooke Popham, a key figure in the early development of airpower whose significant and varied achievements have been overlooked because of his subsequent involvement in the fall of Singapore. It highlights Brooke Popham's role in developing the first modern military logistic system, the creation of the Royal Air Force Staff College and the organizational arrangements that underpinned Fighter Command's success in the Battle of Britain. Peter Dye challenges longstanding views about performance as Commander in Chief Far East and based on new evidence offers a more nuanced narrative that sheds light on British and Allied preparations for the Pacific War, inter-service relations and the reasons for the disastrous loss of air and naval superiority that followed the Japanese attack. The Man Who Took the Rap highlights the misguided attempts at deterrence in the absence of a coordinated information campaign and the unprecedented security lapse that betrayed the parlous state of the Allied defenses. The Story of Aviation Ray Bonds, 1997

Aeronautics, 1920 The Annual Obituary, 1989 Flight, 1913 The Airpost Journal, 1958 Conquerors H. Emde, C. Demand, 1968-12-10 Aviation, 1936 The Birth of Military Aviation Hugh Driver, 1997 A survey of the development of British military aviation from 1903 to 1914 revealing the consequences of its annexation by the state as a branch of armaments as an underlying cause of aircraft inadequacies on the outbreak of war. A mine of information drawing on an impressive range of archives. It will become an important point of reference. ENGLISH HISTORICAL REVIEW This book aims to demonstrate how the crisis evident in British military aviation in the early years of the First World War was inherent in the entire development of aviation in the years preceding the conflict. After outlining the work of the early pioneers and the growth of an aviation industry as a branch of armaments, Dr Driver considers the objectives of the War Office in increasingly seeking to divert design development to their research establishment at Farnborough. He shows how the resultant virtual state monopoly in design and procurement had disastrous consequences for aircraft innovation and development, suffocating both competition and initiative and leading to the maintenance of inadequate aircraft by the Royal Flying Corps following the outbreak of war. The continuing dispute and its culmination in the Fokker Scourge controversy of 1915-1916 graphically characterise the strained development of military industrial relations in this area. Dr HUGH DRIVER gained an MA in War Studies from King's College London and a D Phil in modern history at Oriel College Oxford. Test Pilot James Collins, Jimmy Collins, 1935 Test Pilots Jack Harris, 1989 Describes the training and job of a test pilot and discusses the risks involved in this kind of occupation Pure Luck Alan Bramson, 2005 This is an authorised biography of Sir Thomas Sopwith 1888 1989 who was one of the world's greatest aviators Alan Bramson also gives insight into the aviation industry from the Wright Brothers to the end of the 20th century
