Standards of English in Higher Education Neil Murray, 2016 A frank and critical appraisal of English language proficiency as a key issue in higher education today

Higher Education Revolutions in the Gulf Fatima Badry, John Willoughby, 2015-10-08 Over the past quarter century the people of the Arabian Peninsula have witnessed a revolutionary transformation in higher education In 1990 there were fewer than ten public universities that offered their Arabic language curricula in sex segregated settings to national citizens only In 2015 there are more than one hundred public semi public and private colleges and universities Most of these institutions are open to expatriates and national citizens a few offer gender integrated instruction and the language of instruction is much more likely to be in English than Arabic Higher Education Revolutions in the Gulf explores the reasons behind this dramatic growth It examines the causes of the sharp shift in educational practices and analyses how these new systems of higher education are regulated evaluating the extent to which the new universities and colleges are improving quality Questioning whether these educational changes can be sustained the book explores how the new curricula and language policies are aligned with official visions of the future Written by leading scholars in the field it draws upon their considerable experiences of teaching and doing research in the Arabian Gulf as well as their different disciplinary backgrounds linguistics and economics to provide a holistic and historically informed account of the emergence and viability of the Arabian Peninsula's higher education revolutions Offering a comprehensive critical assessment of education in the Gulf Arab states this book represents a significant contribution to the field and will be of interest to students and scholars of Middle East and Gulf Studies and essential for those focused on higher education

Region-Building in Africa Daniel H. Levine, Dawn Nagar, 2016-05-19 This landmark book is the first of its kind to assess the challenges of African region building and regional integration across all five African sub regions and more than five decades of experience considering both political and economic aspects Leading scholars and practitioners come together to analyze a range of entwined topics including the theoretical underpinnings that have informed Africa's regional integration trajectory the political economy of integration including the sources of different waves of integration in pan Africanism and the reaction to neo liberal economic pressures the complexities of integration in a context of weak states and the informal regionalization that often occurs in borderlands the increasing salience of Africa's relationships with rising extra regional economic powers including China and India and comparative lessons from non African regional blocs including the EU ASEAN and the Southern Common Market A core argument of this book running through all chapters is that region building must be recognized as a political project as much as if not more than an economic one successful region building in Africa will need to include the complex political tasks of strengthening state capacity including states capacity as developmental states that can actively engage in economic planning resolving long standing conflicts over resources and political dominance improving democratic governance and developing trans national political structures that are legitimate and inclusive

Black British Intellectuals and Education Paul Warmington, 2014-02-24 Ask any moderately interested Briton to name a black intellectual and chances are the response will be an American name Malcolm X or Barack Obama Toni Morrison or Cornel West Yet Britain has its own robust black intellectual traditions and its own master teachers among them C L R James Claudia Jones Ambalavaner Sivanandan Stuart Hall and Paul Gilroy However while in the USA black public intellectuals are an embedded if often embattled feature of national life black British thinkers remain routinely marginalized Black British Intellectuals and Education counters this neglect by exploring histories of race education and social justice through the work of black British public intellectuals academics educators and campaigners The book provides a critical history of diverse currents in black British intellectual production from the eighteenth century through post war migration and into the post multicultural present focusing on the sometimes hidden impacts of black thinkers on education and social justice Firstly it argues that black British thinkers have helped fundamentally to shape educational policy practice and philosophy particularly in the post war period Secondly it suggests that education has been one of the key spaces in which the mass consciousness of being black and British has emerged and a key site in which black British intellectual positions have been defined and differentiated Chapters explore the early development of black British intellectual life from the slave narratives to the anti colonial movements of the early twentieth century how African Caribbean and Asian communities began to organize against racial inequalities in schooling in the post Windrush era of the 1950s and 60s how from out of these grassroots struggles black intellectuals and activists of the 1970s 80s and 90s developed radical critiques of education youth and structural racism the influence of multiculturalism black cultural studies and black feminism on education current developments in black British educational work including post racial approaches Critical Race Theory and black social conservatism Black British Intellectuals and Education will be of key relevance to undergraduates postgraduates and academics engaged in research on race ethnicity education social justice and cultural studies

Introducing Needs Analysis and English for Specific Purposes James Dean Brown, 2016-01-08 Introducing Needs Analysis and English for Specific Purposes is a clear and accessible guide to the theoretical background and practical tools needed for this early stage of curriculum development in ESP Beginning with definitions of needs analysis and ESP this book takes a jargon free approach which leads the reader step by step through the process of performing a needs analysis in ESP including how to focus a needs analysis according to the course and student level the selection and sequencing of a wide variety of data collection procedures analysis and interpretation of needs analysis data in order to write reports and determine Student Learning Outcomes personal reflection exercises and examples of real world applications of needs analysis in ESP Introducing Needs Analysis and English for Specific Purposes is essential reading for pre service and in service teachers and students studying English for Specific Purposes Applied Linguistics TESOL and Education Irish Identities Raymond Hickey, Carolina P.

Amador-Moreno, 2020-01-20 This volume examines in depth the many facets of language and identity in the complex linguistic landscape of Ireland The role of the heritage language Irish is scrutinized as are the manifold varieties of English spoken in regions of the island determined by both geography and social contexts Language as a vehicle of national and cultural identity is center stage as is the representation of identity in various media types and text genres In addition the volume examines the self image of the Irish as reflected in various self portrayals and references e g in humorous texts Identity as an aspect of both public and private life in contemporary Ireland and its role in the gender interface is examined closely in several chapters This collection is aimed at both scholars and students interested in language and identity in the multi layered situation of Ireland both historically and at present By addressing general issues surrounding the dynamic and vibrant research area of identity it reaches out to readers beyond Ireland who are concerned with the pivotal role this factor plays in present day societies Exclusion and Poverty in India and Central Asia Chittaranjan Senapati, 2016-09-09 The early years of 1990s economic reform and change has neglected social sectors both in India and Central Asia As a result poverty has also increased in India and Central Asian countries The economic political and social situation has worsened in all Central Asian states due to transition from command economy to market economy The early 1990s political decision has been dominated by a narrowly conceived version of economic policy for both India and Central Asia As a result the quality and the structure of social protection changed in a negative way Indeed in some cases the pursuit of a strict economic orthodoxy has left various sections of the community marginalized and alienated Both the societies confront a number of challenges that is as profound as the economic changes of the past The process of globalization and technical change has influenced economy and society in complex ways including raising expectations of consumption and remuneration for skilled knowledge workers creating greater demand for some information skills and services causing unemployment amongst those with few qualifications and destabilizing some traditional ways of life and increasing social exclusion It detaches groups and individuals from social relations and institutions and prevents them from full participation in the normal activities of the society In India and Central Asia communities face social exclusion on the basis of their identity as ethnic groups socio economic groups religious community and gender Inclusive development therefore is essential and it should be the top priority in development programs of India and Central Asia Research in this area has not been touched upon so far Since Central Asian countries are relatively new and trying to establish their democratic institutions this piece of work will be helpful for their nation building processes So far as the mutual benefit for both the regions is concerned India is an old democracy and its inclusive policy can be lessons for Central Asian countries On the other hand the experience of Central Asia's policy implementation can be a lesson for India This piece of work has potential impulses to policy makers academicians and researchers of these five Central Asian countries and India This work can make a distinction than the conventional researcher in India by focusing on development studies social exclusion inclusive policies and comparative studies in international developments Key words social exclusion poverty deprivation development diversity India Central Asia Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan
