Practical 1: Dissection of a sheep heart

Heart Dissection Walk Through :

The heart dissection is probably one of the most difficult dissections you will do. Part of the reason it is so difficult to learn is that the heart is not perfectly symmetrical, but it is so close that it becomes difficult to discern which side you are looking at (dorsal, ventral, left or right). Finding the vessels is directly related to being able to orient the heart correctly and figuring out which side you are looking at.

The heart is also difficult because the fatty tissue that surrounds the heart can obscure the openings to the vessels. This means that you really must experience the heart with your hands and feel your way to find the openings. Many people will be squeamish about this, and because the heart is slippery, it is easy to drop. Don't be shy with the heart; use your fingers to feel your way through the dissection.

1. Step One: Orientation

When you first remove your heart from the bag, you will see a lot of fatty tissue surrounding it. It is usually a waste of time to try to remove this tissue. You may also want to arm yourself with some kind of markers for the parts you find, colour pencils work great to identify a vessel and you will see many used to mark openings on the heart.

There are a few clues to help you figure out the left and the right side, but often the packaging and preserving process can cause the heart to be misshapen. If you are lucky, the heart will be nicely preserved and you will see that the front (ventral) side of the heart has a couple of key features:

- 1) a large pulmonary trunk(artery) that extends off the top of it
- 2) the flaps of the auricles covering the top of the atria.
- 3) the curve of the entire front side, whereas the backside is much flatter.

Antoniouk, Roderick V. N. Melnik, 2012-12-19 The book provides a unique collection of in depth mathematical statistical and modeling methods and techniques for life sciences as well as their applications in a number of areas within life sciences The book provides also with a range of new ideas that represent emerging frontiers in life sciences where the application of such quantitative methods and techniques is becoming increasingly important Many areas within life sciences are becoming increasingly quantitative and the progress in those areas will be more and more dependent on the successful development of advanced mathematical statistical and modelling methodologies and techniques The state of the art developments in such methodologies and techniques are scattered throughout research journals and hardly accessible to the practitioners in those areas This book identifies a number of frontier areas where such methodologies and techniques have recently been developed and are to be published here for the first time bringing substantial potential benefit to a range of applications in life sciences In addition the book contains several state of the art surveys at the interface of mathematics and life sciences that would benefit a larger interdisciplinary community It is aimed at researchers in academia practitioners and graduate students who want to foster interdisciplinary collaborations required to meet the challenges at the interface of modern life sciences and mathematics Practical Advice to Teachers Rudolf Steiner, 2000-06

A seer sees more than meets the eye using the eyes of the soul along with the physical eyes As all seeing is a form of cognition higher seeing is the key to higher cognition or knowing For human beings the spiritual world is hidden deep within the disguise of the world available to the senses and deep within the human psyche and human consciousness enmeshed as it usually is in the physical senses cannot easily be aware of both worlds The human soul is the link between the physical sense imbued body and direct experience of the spirit because it has the latent ability to focus consciousness into any number of levels The ability to determine the focus of awareness is our great gift and our great challenge In this practical and accessible guidebook Dennis Klocek building on the alchemical tradition and the Western path of initiation developed by Rudolf Steiner shows how the soul's latent ability can be awakened by conscious acts of will and rhythmical practices The practices begin wherever we are in our everyday lives and take the seeker through the levels of concentration the ability to create and hold an inner image contemplation the ability to transform the image and make it dynamic and meditation the ability to reverse the image or think it backward into inner silence After presenting the practical exercises along with commentary that identify and lay out the steps Klocek shows us how the path can be followed through to an understanding of a seemingly impenetrable alchemical image of the soul's journey as he guides us up the Alchemical Mountain to heartfelt thinking Through such a journey it becomes possible for human beings to live as spiritual beings among other spiritual beings For those who are serious about developing faculties of higher knowing and seeing The Seer's Handbook is a unique practical and friendly handbook of exercises meditations and insightful commentary that will guide both beginners and more advanced students along the path to higher worlds
