South African urban imaginaries: cases from Johannesburg Richard Ballard, Sandiswa Mapukata, 2022-06-01

How do government officials elected politicians powerful economic actors and ordinary people think and talk about the urban geography of South Africa How do they describe and represent change that is happening in cities towns and villages Do they consider these changes to be good or bad How do they think such places should change What do they do to try to bring about the changes they desire Competing answers to these questions have been at the centre of South Africa's urban development Through the 19th and 20th centuries white minority governments straddled quite contradictory imaginaries about who could build lives for themselves in urban areas and on what terms Ordinary people held their own urban imaginaries that were quite different to those of white minority governments and were core to the fight for democracy In the democratic era a range of official and popular imaginaries offer diverse visions on how South Africans should be transformed In an earlier collection produced under the GCRO Spatial Imaginaries project we explored the sometimes contradictory nature of post apartheid urban visions with for example with some promoting the creation of new urban settlements on greenfield sites and others attempting to densify and diversify long urbanised spaces Research Report 13 South African urban imaginaries Cases from Johannesburg is a second edited collection under the Spatial Imaginaries project and it uses a series of cases from Johannesburg that illustrate the interactions between urban imaginaries and the material city These cases include the depiction of central business districts in film as spaces of aspiration the way in which the imaginaries of developers in Hillbrow were shaped by the lives of those living there the imaginaries of Alexandra Renewal Project practitioners the way in which residents of Brixton understand diversity and the construction of two new bridges across the M1 to better connect Sandton and Alexandra Making Public in a Privatized World David A. McDonald, 2016-02-15 How do we provide effective public services in a deeply neoliberal world In the wake of the widespread failure of privatisation efforts societies in the global south are increasingly seeking progressive ways of recreating the public sector With contributors ranging from cutting edge scholars to activists working in health water and energy provision and with case studies covering a broad spectrum of localities and actors Making Public in a Privatized World uncovers the radically different ways in which public services are being reshaped from the grassroots up From communities holding the state accountable for public health in rural Guatemala to waste pickers in India and decentralized solar electricity initiatives in Africa the essays in this collection offer probing insights into the complex ways in which people are building genuine alternatives to privatization while also illustrating the challenges which communities face in creating public services which are not subordinated to the logic of the market or to the monolithic state entities of the past

Ethnic and Minority Cultures as Tourist Attractions Anya Diekmann, Melanie Kay Smith, 2015-01-15 This book focuses on ethnic and minority communities in urban contexts and the ways in which their cultures are represented in tourism development It offers a multi disciplinary approach which draws on examples and case studies of ethnic and minority communities and cultural tourism development from all around the world including slums in India favelas in Brazil Chinatowns in Australia Jewish quarters in Central and Eastern Europe ethnic villages in China the African district of Brussels the gay quarter in Cape Town and a desert town in Israel It offers a positive perspective on ethnic and minority cultures and communities at a time when social and political support is lacking in many countries This book will be a useful resource for those studying and researching cultural and urban tourism urban planning and development community studies and urban and cultural geography

Why Transportation Fails Astrid Wood, 2025-07-29 Why Transportation Fails offers an in depth critique of transportation failures in South Africa and beyond Minibus taxis are unreliable and overcrowded buses and trains are old and poorly maintained and new services are derailed by spiraling capital and operational costs protracted and politicized rollouts and unsolvable infrastructural challenges Rather than focusing on these failures the conceptual and practical analyses in this book develop a critical understanding of transportation and highlight the opportunities for transportation to be more inclusive innovative and sustainable This book applies cutting edge scholarship from geography and urban studies decolonial geographies Black geographies policy mobilities walking geographies animal geographies art geographies and health geographies to reframe transportation failure The interdisciplinarity of this scholarship builds an approach that not only tells the story of transportation in South Africa but also uncovers a range of conceptual interpretations and imaginations that stretch beyond urban mobilities and urban development In decentering traditional geographies of knowledge production Why Transportation Fails contributes to critical considerations of urban transportation in Africa and aspects of transportation justice within social and spatial transformation Given the never ending financial and political investment in solving transportation Why Transportation Fails is an essential reading for scholars of architecture development geography politics sociology and urban planners and practitioners in Sustainable Urban Planning and Management Martin van Maarseveen, Javier Martinez, Johannes Flacke, 2018-12-07

The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.tandfebooks.com/doi/view/10.1201/9781315146638> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 3.0 license. GIS is used today to better understand and solve urban problems. GIS in Sustainable Urban Planning and Management: A Global Perspective explores and illustrates the capacity that geo information and GIS have to inform practitioners and other participants in the processes of the planning and management of urban regions. The first part of the book addresses the concept of sustainable urban development, its different frameworks, the many ways of measuring sustainability and its value in the urban policy arena. The second part discusses how urban planning can shape our cities, examines various spatial configurations of cities, the spread of activities and the demands placed on different functions to achieve strategic objectives. It further focuses on the recognition that urban dwellers are increasingly under threat from natural hazards and climate change. Written by authors with expertise on the applications of geo information in urban management, this book showcases the importance of GIS in better understanding current urban challenges and provides new insights on how to apply GIS in urban planning. It illustrates through real world cases the use of GIS in analyzing and evaluating the position of disadvantaged groups and areas in cities and provides clear examples of applied GIS in urban sustainability and urban resilience. The idea of sustainable development is still very much central in the new development agenda of the United Nations and in that sense it is of particular importance for students from both the Global South and Global North. Professionals, researchers and students alike will find this book to be an invaluable resource for understanding and solving problems relating to sustainable urban planning and management.

New Drivers of Division Ya Ping Wang, Keith Kintrea, David Everatt, Debolina Kundu, 2025-09-02. This open access book provides recent trends of urbanization and inequality in Africa and Asia. It addresses the inequality challenges of urbanization and large scale rural to urban migration. It answers questions around socio economic and spatial inequalities and how serious those are in cities in Africa and Asia under 21st century urbanization. Chapters demonstrate how the old neighborhood division in cities based on race, ethnicity, religion, apartheid, tribes, caste and migrant are replaced by social class through sorting in the housing market. The analyses go beyond the normal income inequality consideration and take a broader perspective on inequality by considering these issues at the neighborhood level to reveal the new spatial divisions in cities. As such it is essential reading for academics and students in urban studies, sociology, geography, planning and policymakers working on urban development around the world.

Local Officials and the Struggle to Transform Cities Claire B nit-Gbaffou, 2024-02-27. Why are even progressive local authorities with the will to improve seldom able to change cities? Why does it seem almost impossible to redress spatial inequalities, deliver and maintain basic services, elevate impoverished areas and protect the marginalised communities? Why do municipalities in the Global South refuse to work with prevailing social informalities and resort instead to interventions that are known to displace and aggravate the very issues they aim to address Local Officials and the Struggle to Transform Cities analyses these challenges in South African cities where the brief post apartheid moment opened a window for progressive city government and made research into state practices both possible and necessary In debate with other progressive moments in large cities in Brazil the USA and India the book interrogates City officials practices It considers the instruments they invent and negotiate to implement urban policies the agency they develop and the constraints they navigate in governing unequal cities This focus on actual officials practices is captured through first hand experience state ethnographies and engaged research These reveal day to day practice that question generalised explanations of state failure in complex urban societies as essential malevolence contextual weakness corruption and inefficiency It is hoped that opening the black box of the workings of state opens paths for the construction of progressive policies in contemporary cities Urbanization and Industrialization for Africa's Transformation ,2017

The 2017 Economic Report on Africa focuses on the linkages between industrialization and urbanization Urbanization is one of Africa mega trends with profound implications for the social economic environmental dimensions of growth and transformation Theory and experience demonstrate that industrialization and urbanization can be mutually reinforcing processes It is therefore imperative to explore the linkages between urbanization and industrialization given the profound implications for structural transformation in Africa So far current policy narratives and frameworks on structural transformation and industrialization in Africa have largely failed to factor in the spatial and urban dimensions of industrialization and in particular the advantages presented by productivity enhancement and agglomeration effects generated by cities Yet the nexus between urbanization and industrialization is of particular relevance for Agenda 2063 and the 2030 Agenda on Sustainable Development Both agendas recognize urbanization as a critical factor for sustainable development It is also important to consider urbanization and industrialization in light of Africa s engagement with the Third United Nations Conference on Housing and Sustainable Urban Development Habitat III to be held in Quito Ecuador in October 2016 In this context African policy makers have clearly recognized urbanization as an engine of structural transformation for inclusive and sustainable growth Geography Bridgette Levy,2000 Geography ,2001
