Management in the Irrigated Rice-wheat Cropping System of the Indo-Gangetic Plains Y. Singh, 2008 Diversification of Arid Farming Systems P. Narain, M.P. Singh, A. Kar, S. Katju, Praveen Kumar, 2009-04-01 Over the years economic considerations have overtaken the sustainability issue Low and erratic rainfall frequent droughts the increasing costs of cultivation lower compensation of labour and inputs have made farming in the arid regions a challenging enterprise Employment opportunities in sectors other than agriculture have enticed many to cross the floor The largest segment of the farming community however is constrained to make a living from farm related activities With the opening of markets for international trade in farm commodities the competition has toughened for the resource constrained farmers of the arid regions of the country On the other hand useful technologies have been generated by researchers on many alternative systems which could be adopted In this scenario the farmers could benefit greatly by inducing diversification in the farming systems and by strengthening the traditional systems With this backdrop a National Symposium on Livelihood Security and Diversified Farming Systems in Arid Region was organized by the Arid Zone Research Association of India at the Central Arid Zone Research Institute Jodhpur from January 14 16 2006 Selected papers presented at the symposium and invited articles have been included in this compendium and are grouped in sections on Diversification Strengthening the Traditional Farming Systems Enhancing Resource Use Efficiency Livestock based Farming Systems Value Addition Socio economic Issues and Transfer of Technology Currently food water and energy crises are of global concern The challenge ahead is to strike a balance between basic needs of a large population and to maintain the pace of development Diversification of farming systems may contribute towards achieving this goal to some extent It is hoped that the book will provide options for diversification of the existing farming systems and benefit there from Conservation Agriculture: A Sustainable

Approach for Soil Health and Food Security Somasundaram Jayaraman, Ram C. Dalal, Ashok K. Patra, Suresh K. Chaudhari, 2021-08-20 Feeding the increasing global population which is projected to reach 10 billion by 2050 there has been increasing demands for more improved sustainable agricultural management practices that can be followed by farmers to improve productivity without jeopardizing the environment and ecosystem. Indeed, about 95% of our food directly or indirectly comes from soil. It is a precious resource and sustainable soil management is a critical socio-economic and environmental issue. Maintaining the environmental sustainability while the world is facing resource degradation, increasing climate change, and population explosion is the current challenge of every food production sector. Thus, there is an urgent need to evolve a holistic approach such as conservation agriculture to sustain higher crop productivity in the country without deteriorating soil health. Conservation Agriculture (CA) is a sustainable approach to manage agro-ecosystems in order to improve productivity, increase farm profitability, and food security, and also enhance the resource base and environment. Worldwide, it has been reported various benefits and prospects in adopting CA technologies in different agro-climatic conditions. Yet, CA in arid and semi-arid regions of India and parts of South Asia raises uncertainties due to its extreme climates, large-scale residue burning, soil erosion, and other constraints such as low water holding capacity, high potential evapotranspiration, etc. Thus, the proposed book has 30 chapters addressing all issues relevant to conservation agriculture, no-till farming system. The book also gives further strengthening existing knowledge in relation to soil physical, chemical, and biological processes and health within close proximity of CA, as well as machinery requirements. Moreover, the information on carbon (C) sequestration, C credits, greenhouse gas (GHG) emission mitigation of climate change effects, and socio-economic view on CA under diverse ecologies, namely rainfed, irrigated, and hill eco-region, is also deliberated. For large-scale adoption of CA practices in South Asian region, especially in India and other countries, need dissemination of best bet CA technologies for dominant soil types, cropping systems through participatory mode, strong linkages, and institutional mechanism, and public-private policy support. We hope this book gives a comprehensive and clear picture about conservation agriculture, no-till farming, and its associated problem, challenges, prospects, and benefits. This book shall be highly useful reference material to researchers, scientists, students, farmers, and land managers for efficient and sustainable management of natural resources.

The Philippine Agricultural Scientist, 2012 Climate Smart Agriculture in South Asia Barun Deb Pal, Avinash Kishore, Pramod Kumar Joshi, Narendra Kumar Tyagi, 2019-09-10. This book discusses various climate-smart agro-technologies, their technical and economic feasibility across heterogeneous agro-climatic conditions, assessing farmers' willingness to adopt those technologies, impact of climate-smart technology in agricultural production, and possible policy and investment opportunities to upscale it. Containing eight chapters, the book starts with a discussion about the methodological aspects of priority setting of the farm technologies across various regions of South Asia, including Eastern Indo-Gangetic plain, Western Indo-Gangetic Plain, and arid regions. Using data from field-based trials and expert solicitations, the book next deliberates on a list of feasible technologies assessed by constructing climate-smart Feasibility Index. Further on, there is an analysis using stated preference method of the behaviour of farmers in adopting climate-smart technologies. Preference of women farmers has been given a special focus in this book. After discussing the method, priority setting of the farm technologies, impact of climate-smart technologies has been analysed using real time data Government policies have been reviewed with the view of achieving climate smart agriculture in South Asia The book also describes the optimization modelling framework for investment allocation and technology prioritization The model integrates both the bio physical and the economic optimization model to capture the agro climatic heterogeneity within the region and the variability of technical feasibility across regions and crops Results of this model will help policy makers to identify how much to invest where to invest and what technologies to prioritize for investments

Transforming Coastal Zone for Sustainable Food and Income Security T.D. Lama,Dhiman Burman,Uttam Kumar Mandal,Sukanta Kumar Sarangi,H.S. Sen,2022-08-09 Coastal areas are commonly defined as the interface or transition areas between land and sea including large inland lakes Overall about 50 70 % of the global population live within 100 km of the coastline covering only about 4 % of earth s land thereby drawing heavily on coastal and marine habitats for food building sites transportation recreational areas and waste disposal The people of these zones depend mainly on low productive agriculture due to several constraints such as prolonged water logging and drainage congestion in predominantly low lying areas with heavy soils during the wet season preponderance of saline and acid sulphate soils scarcity of good quality irrigation water particularly in the dry season seawater intrusion into adjoining lands and water pollution due to eutrophication and others affecting the aquatic habitats etc Carbon sequestration in coastal areas such as marshes lagoons etc has significant influence on soil quality and the carbon pool in soils as well as their impacts on the environment Over and above these the coastal areas are prone to disasters due to climate change leading to colossal loss of lives and properties in many areas Forestry and mangrove dynamics in particular because of their continuing diminishing nature are also subjects of interest affecting the ecology of coastal zones requiring appropriate attention The international symposium held in this context on Transforming Coastal Zones for Sustainable Food and Income Security in virtual mode in March 2021 offered scope to present and discuss various thematic areas by eminent scientists from all over the world The proceedings of selected papers presented reflect cross sectoral views of the areas highlighting wherever necessary a fusion of technologies with the ultimate target to suggest livelihood security and sustainable development for the sensitive coastal zones The book intends to share the knowledge with researchers academicians and various other stakeholders to address the complex problems of coastal regions production constraints social economic technical and environmental issues to draw out strategies for resilient agricultural technologies and improving livelihood security in coastal agro ecosystems
