Final Examination Question Paper Maths Literacy 2014:

Assessing Academic Literacy in a Multilingual Society Albert Weideman, John Read, Theo du Plessis, 2020-11-02 South African universities face major challenges in meeting the needs of their students in the area of academic language and literacy. The dominant medium of instruction in the universities is English and to a much lesser extent Afrikaans but only a minority of the national population are native speakers of these languages. Nine other languages can be media of instruction in schools which makes the transition to tertiary education difficult enough in itself for students from these schools. The focus of this book is on procedures for assessing the academic language and literacy levels and needs of students not in order to exclude students from higher education but rather to identify those who would benefit from further development of their ability in order to undertake their degree studies successfully. The volume also aims to bring the innovative solutions designed by South African educators to a wider international audience.

to educate teachers in effectively using assessments to promote monitor and report on student learning However assessment has historically been a neglected area in teacher education programmes and empirical research has consistently shown assessment as an area of challenge for many teachers While there is an increased focus across teacher education and professional literature on enhancing the assessment capacity of educators there remains little empirical research on innovative and data based strategies to effectively achieve this goal The purpose of this text is to consolidate existing research on assessment education and to provoke innovative and effective approaches to educating teachers and teachers in training about assessment Given the dearth of relevant research this text also considers the matter of retention and extension of initial assessment learning into teaching careers Combined the articles in this text provide a foundation for novel thinking about developing teachers assessment capacity from pre service to in service contexts This book was originally published as a special issue of Assessment in Education Mathematical Competencies in the Digital Era Uffe Thomas Jankvist, Eirini Geraniou, 2023-02-20 This book focuses on the potential interplay between two distinct yet related paradigm shifts in mathematics education drawing on the notion of networking of theories through illustrative case studies from the Danish educational system and beyond The first paradigm shift is the massive introduction of digital technology in the teaching and learning of the subject the second is a shift from the traditional focusing on mastering of skills and knowledge to being concerned with the possession and development of mathematical competencies This book builds on the Danish KOM Competencies and the Learning of Mathematics project which sources its description of mathematical mastery primarily on the notion of a mathematical competency rather than on lists of topics concepts and results This allows for an overarching framework which captures the perspectives of mathematics teaching and learning at whichever educational level While the KOM framework does not in detail address the role of digital technologies in relation to its description of different types of mathematical competencies etc the chapters of this book set out to do exactly this while in the process also drawing on a selection of other theoretical constructs and frameworks from mathematics education research Starting with introductory chapters by key researchers in the area the book brings forth chapters for each of the KOM framework's eight mathematical competencies authored by Nordic researchers in combination with international scholars The KOM framework also operates with three types of overview and judgement which are specifically addressed in relation to the role of digital technologies in the third part of the book The fourth and final part of the book broadens the scene and provides chapters of a more perspective nature in relation to mathematical competencies in the digital era The book's preface is by Susanne Prediger Measuring Teachers' Beliefs Quantitatively Safrudiannur, 2020-04-06 The use of Likert scale instruments for measuring teachers beliefs is criticized because of amplifying social desirability reducing the willingness to make differentiations and often providing less or no contexts Those weaknesses may distort teachers responses to a Likert scale instrument causing inconsistencies between their responses and their actions Therefore the author offers an alternative approach by employing rank then rate items and considering students abilities as one of the factors affecting teachers beliefs

The results confirm that the offered approach may give a better prediction about teachers beliefs than does a Likert scale instrument
