

Chapter 1

Accounting in Business

QUESTIONS

1. The purpose of accounting is to provide decision makers with relevant and reliable information to help them make better decisions. Examples include information for people making investments, loans, and business plans.
2. Technology reduces the time, effort, and cost of recordkeeping. There is still a demand for people who can design accounting systems, supervise their operation, analyze complex transactions, and interpret reports. Demand also exists for people who can effectively use computers to prepare and analyze accounting reports. Technology will never substitute for qualified people with abilities to prepare, use, analyze, and interpret accounting information.
3. External users and their uses of accounting information include: (a) lenders, to measure the risk and return of loans; (b) shareholders, to assess whether to buy, sell, or hold their shares; (c) directors, to oversee their interests in the organization; (d) employees and labor unions, to judge the fairness of wages and assess future employment opportunities; and (e) regulators, to determine whether the organization is complying with regulations. Other users are voters, legislators, government officials, contributors to nonprofits, suppliers and customers.
4. Business owners and managers use accounting information to help answer questions such as: What resources does an organization own? What debts are owed? How much income is earned? Are expenses reasonable for the level of sales? Are customers' accounts being promptly collected?
5. Service businesses include: Standard and Poor's, Dun & Bradstreet, Merrill Lynch, Southwest Airlines, CitiCorp, Humana, Charles Schwab, and Prudential. Businesses offering products include Nike, Reebok, Gap, Apple Computer, Ford Motor Co., Philip Morris, Coca-Cola, Best Buy, and Circuit City.
6. The internal role of accounting is to serve the organization's internal operating functions. It does this by providing useful information for internal users in completing their tasks more effectively and efficiently. By providing this information, accounting helps the organization reach its overall goals.
7. Accounting professionals offer many services including auditing, management advice, tax planning, business valuation, and money management.
8. Marketing managers are likely interested in information such as sales volume, advertising costs, promotion costs, salaries of sales personnel, and sales commissions.

Girous,2014-12-08 The chief executive officer CEO of a corporation and his or her executive team are responsible for the management of the business and its continued operating and financial success The CEO and executive team are almost always highly compensated and the relative total compensation has mushroomed over time Most of the compensation now is designed to be performance based but leading to charges that executives have incentives to manipulate corporate earnings and stock price in the short term for their own self interests The compensation at some companies became so egregious that compensation again became a major public policy issue subject to federal regulation Executive Compensation focuses on the major topics related to executive compensation present past and future First is understanding what executive compensation is including composition and objectives of pay contracts Second how do specific compensation agreements affect corporate behavior and performance Third what are the major components including how and what are accounted for and disclosed

How is compensation especially executive compensation accounted for that is what are the calculations and journal entries required Fourth what does historical analysis tell us about the topic especially how contractual decisions have been made and what has worked Finally what is in store for the future both expected compensation agreements and what the compensation incentives suggest for future corporate decisions on operations and accounting manipulation
