Practical 1: Dissection of a sheep heart

Heart Dissection Walk Through :

The heart dissection is probably one of the most difficult dissections you will do. Part of the reason it is so difficult to learn is that the heart is not perfectly symmetrical, but it is so close that it becomes difficult to discern which side you are looking at (dorsal, ventral, left or right). Finding the vessels is directly related to being able to orient the heart correctly and figuring out which side you are looking at.

The heart is also difficult because the fatty tissue that surrounds the heart can obscure the openings to the vessels. This means that you really must experience the heart with your hands and feel your way to find the openings. Many people will be squeamish about this, and because the heart is slippery, it is easy to drop. Don't be shy with the heart; use your fingers to feel your way through the dissection.

1. Step One: Orientation

When you first remove your heart from the bag, you will see a lot of fatty tissue surrounding it. It is usually a waste of time to try to remove this tissue. You may also want to arm yourself with some kind of markers for the parts you find, colour pencils work great to identify a vessel and you will see many used to mark openings on the heart.

There are a few clues to help you figure out the left and the right side, but often the packaging and preserving process can cause the heart to be misshapen. If you are lucky, the heart will be nicely preserved and you will see that the front (ventral) side of the heart has a couple of key features:

- 1) a large pulmonary trunk(artery) that extends off the top of it
- 2) the flaps of the auricles covering the top of the atria.
- 3) the curve of the entire front side, whereas the backside is much flatter.

Mineral Resources, Grade 11 Carla C. Johnson, Janet B. Walton, Erin E. Peters-Burton, 2022-05-25 What if you could challenge your eleventh graders to come up with a design solution for developing managing and utilizing mineral resources With this volume in the STEM Road Map Curriculum Series you can Mineral Resources outlines a journey that will steer your students toward authentic problem solving while grounding them in integrated STEM disciplines Like the other volumes in the series this book is designed to meet the growing need to infuse real world learning into K 12 classrooms This interdisciplinary three lesson module uses project and problem based learning to help students develop an in depth understanding of mineral resources by researching the utility and impact of particular mineral resources on society Working in teams students will locate quantitative and qualitative data on mineral resources and discern the reliability of the information then use their data to write an opinion article and develop a website to convince readers of the effectiveness of a particular design solution for developing managing and utilizing mineral resources To support this goal students will do the following Explain how mineral resources are located and used in various ways in society Explain why mineral resources are important to society Critically evaluate quantitative and qualitative data about mineral resources Write an opinion article demonstrating their knowledge about competing design solutions for extracting mineral resources The STEM Road Map Curriculum Series is anchored in the Next Generation Science Standards the Common Core State Standards and the Framework for 21st Century Learning In depth and flexible Mineral Resources can be used as a whole unit or in part to meet the needs of districts schools and teachers who are charting a course toward an integrated STEM approach Practical Peer-to-Peer Teaching and Learning on the Social Web Hai-Jew, Shalin, 2021-11-19 On the Social Web people share their enthusiasms and expertise on almost every topic and based on this learners can find resources created by individuals with varying expertise Through this trend and the wide availability of video cameras and authoring tools people are creating DIY resources and sharing their knowledge skills and abilities broadly While these resources are increasing in availability what has not been explored is the effectiveness of these resources peer to peer teaching and learning and how well this content prepares learners for professional roles Practical Peer to Peer Teaching and Learning on the Social Web explores the efficacies of online teaching and learning with materials by peers and provides insights into what is made available for teaching and learning by the broad public It also considers intended and unintended outcomes of open shared learning online and discusses practical ethics in teaching and learning online Covering topics such as learner roles and instructional design it is ideal for teachers instructional designers and developers software developers user interface designers researchers academicians and students The Logic of the Spirit in Human Thought and Experience Keith J White, Dana R Wright, 2015-02-26 In March 2012 a small consultation convened on the campus of Princeton Theological Seminary where James E Loder Jr had served for forty years as the Mary D Synnott Professor of the Philosophy of Christian Education

Members from the Child Theology Movement had begun to read Loder's work and they wanted to go further. So they invited former students of Loder's to meet with them for conversations about things that really mattered to them and to Loder: human beings and especially children; the church's witness to the gospel of Jesus Christ and discerning the work of Spiritus Creator in the postmodern world. The conversations proved rich and rewarding and some would even say they took on a life of their own: serious scholarship set to the music of the Spirit's communion, creating artistry, forming new relationships, inspiring new ideas and sustaining all of it amid much laughter, joy and hope. These essays, taken from the papers delivered at the consultation, are offered as a means of extending that conversation inspired by Loder's interdisciplinary practical theological science and his discernment of the Post-Secondary Chemistry Education in Developing Countries Dawn I. Fox, Medeba Uzzi, Jacqueline Murray, 2024-03-25 This book considers how post secondary chemistry education can be advanced in developing countries in order to respond to emerging global, regional and local needs. Taking Guyana as a case study, it pays particular attention to local challenges facing such territories, including human and financial resource shortages, tension between quality and quantity of graduates, cultural inequalities, unequal access to increasingly important Information and Communication Technology or Technologies (ICTs) and increasing competition from international universities in the developed world. Written by a team with over 70 years in combined teaching experience, it asks whether these challenges can be met and overcome and considers how tertiary chemistry education can better meet the rapidly changing needs of society. The authors examine the status quo of tertiary chemistry education in Guyana against the introductory backdrop of the internal and external stresses on the education system, before exploring selected best practices grounded in a three-pronged model focused on pedagogy, programming and people. Advancing diversity on each of these levels, the book ultimately shows how this framework can support better learning and teaching and the development of a better equipped and more diverse Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) workforce. It will appeal to scholars, researchers, graduate students and tertiary level curriculum developers in chemistry education interested in an innovative, holistic approach for transforming chemistry teaching that focuses on pedagogical diversity, strategic co-curricular programming and accommodating diversity and diverse learning styles in the classroom.

Science Education and Curriculum in South Africa Oscar Koopman, 2016-11-01 This book explores the impact of the socio-historical, political and economic environment in South Africa, both during and after Apartheid. During this time, the South African education system demonstrated an interest in a specific type of knowledge which Koopman refers to as a science of government. This science of government leaves the learners with a blurred understanding of science that is disconnected from external nature and human nature and is presented as a series of abstract concepts and definitions. The book also investigates the dialectical tensions between the science curriculum and the role of the teacher as an active implementer of the curriculum. The book draws on the work of various phenomenological scholars, namely Edmund Husserl, Martin Heidegger, Merleau-Ponty and Max van Manen, to discuss these tensions.
