

A photograph of a woman in a blue jumpsuit lying face down on a white table in a school cafeteria. A police officer in a dark vest and white shirt stands over her, looking down. Other students in blue jumpsuits are standing around the table, some looking at the woman. The scene appears to be a disciplinary action or a search.

Salinas V. Breier ,1981 Menstruation Matters Bridget J. Crawford,Emily Gold Waldman,2024-10 Explores the burgeoning menstrual advocacy movement and analyzes how law should evolve to take menstruation into account Approximately half the population menstruates for a large portion of their lives but the law is mostly silent about the topic Until recently most people would have said that periods are private matters not to be discussed in public But the last few years have seen a new willingness among advocates and allies of all ages to speak openly about periods Slowly around the globe people are recognizing the basic fundamental human right to address menstruation in a safe and affordable way free of stigma shame or barriers to access Menstruation Matters explores the role of law in this movement It asks what the law currently says about menstruation spoiler alert not much and provides a roadmap for legal reform that can move society closer to a world where no one is held back or disadvantaged by menstruation Bridget J Crawford and Emily Gold Waldman examine these issues in a wide range of contexts from schools to workplaces to prisons to tax policies and more Ultimately they seek to transform both law and society so that menstruation is no longer an obstacle to full participation in all aspects of public and private life
