Abstract Organizing for Disaster: Improving U.S. Foreign Humanitarian Assistance Operations, 2002 U S Government USG agencies provide foreign humanitarian assistance FHA every year to disaster victims around the world The ability to rapidly provide humanitarian aid serves America s national interests but USG interagency coordination for FHA remains ad hoc at the operational level For its part the U S military is not fully prepared for the unique operational challenges of FHA Consequently valuable time is often lost improvising a USG response after a crisis occurs The operational level framework for a USG response must be in place before a foreign disaster strikes The principles and functions of FHA are distinctive at the operational level and participating USG agencies have unique roles and responsibilities for organizing FHA operations Unfortunately the lack of interagency guidance has promoted an ad hoc approach to organizing FHA operations that has hampered past relief efforts Several measures can be taken in order to better prepare for future FHA operations These include pre designating and training the Joint Task Force JTF commander and staff for FHA developing interagency doctrine for organizing FHA operations and over the long term forming a standing Joint Interagency Task Force JIATF for FHA

Europe's High-End Military Challenges Seth G. Jones, Rachel Ellehuus, 2022-02-02 This CSIS report examines the evolution of European military capabilities over the next decade It asks two main questions What military capabilities might European allies and partners of the United States possess by 2030 And what types of military missions will these states be able and unable to effectively perform by 2030 First European militaries including the largest and most capable European NATO members will continue to struggle to conduct several types of missions without significant U S assistance Second European militaries will face significant challenges in the Indo Pacific Third Europe s major powers will likely have the capability to conduct most types of missions at the lower end of the conflict continuum without significant U S military aid To sustain progress and overcome remaining challenges NATO will have to revise its burden sharing metrics modernize defense planning and procurement practices and address lagging political will Yearbook of International Humanitarian Law, Volume 26 (2023) Heike Krieger, Pablo Kalmanovitz, Eliav Liebllich, Stavros Evdokimos Pantazopoulos, 2025-06-09 Volume 26 of the Yearbook of International Humanitarian Law YIHL centres on the law history and politics of humanitarian action in armed conflicts and beyond Since the late nineteenth century when IHL was arguably founded on the neutralization of battlefield medical aid humanitarian actors have expanded their role and mission contributing to the evolution of contemporary international humanitarian law IHL Against this backdrop authors were invited to reflect on the legal framework of humanitarian action and the ongoing relevance of fundamental humanitarian principles The Volume contains two chapters dedicated to the subject of humanitarian actors The first chapter argues in favour of the reconstruction of the laws of humanitarian assistance from the perspective of humanitarian practitioners while the second chapter foregrounds the role of the state as a key humanitarian actor The Volume further features two general submissions investigating the legality of toxic chemicals for law enforcement purposes under the Chemical Weapons Convention and the legal implications of tactical intelligence provision to a party to an international armed conflict The Volume as usual ends with a Year in Review section YIHL is a leading annual publication devoted to the study of IHL It has always strived to be at the forefront of the debate of pressing doctrinal questions of IHL As this Volume demonstrates it offers a space where IHL related issues can be explored both from a doctrinal and a theoretical perspective YIHL provides an international forum for high quality peer reviewed academic articles focusing on this crucial branch of international law Distinguished by contemporary relevance YIHL bridges the gap between theory and practice serving as a useful reference tool for scholars practitioners military personnel civil servants diplomats human rights workers and students Globalization Hector Cuadra-Montiel,2012-08-22 The book Globalization Approaches to Diversity takes the ambitious undertaking of presenting a series of global issues that range from historic to contemporary from transnational to local and from cultural to institutional It consists of twelve chapters divided into three sections Globalization Agendas Globalization Policies Globalization Experiences Its authors embody a global research culture One that is plural growing and dynamic as it is evidenced in their respective agendas and methodological approaches The value of this book lies in its diversity and its merit will be appreciated by a global community of scholars South-south Cooperation and Chinese Foreign Aid Meibo Huang,Xiuli Xu,Xiaojing Mao,2018-12-06 This book is a collection of 15 case studies on China s foreign aid and economic cooperation with developing countries Each case introduces the general information of a China s project analyzes its features and impacts and especially focuses on analysis of the characteristics of China s foreign aid under South South Cooperation framework which shows the differences of foreign aid by emerging economies from that by traditional donors in aid ideology principles practices and effects This book is one of the research projects by China International Development Research Network CIDRN as part of its contribution to the activities under the Network of Southern Think tanks NeST Moral Vision in International Politics David Halloran Lumsdaine,2020-12-08 Can moral vision influence the dynamics of the world system This inquiry into the evolving foreign aid policies of eighteen developed democracies challenges conventional international relations theory and offers a broad framework of testable hypotheses about the ways ethical commitments can help structure global politics For forty years

development assistance has been the largest and steadiest net financial flow to the Third World far exceeding investment by multinational corporations Yet fifty years ago aid was unheard of Investigating this sudden and widespread innovation in the postwar political economy David Lumsdaine marshals a wealth of historical and statistical evidence to show that aid was based less on donor economic and political interests than on humanitarian convictions and the belief that peace and prosperity could be sustained only within a just international order Lumsdaine finds the developed countries adhered to rules that increasingly favored the neediest aid recipients and reduced their own leverage Furthermore the donors most concerned about domestic poverty also gave more foreign aid the U S aid effort was weaker than that of other donors Many lines of evidence how aid changed over time which donors contributed heavily where the money was spent who supported aid efforts converge to show how humanitarian concerns shaped aid Seeking to bridge the gap between normative theory and empirical analysis Lumsdaine's broad comparative study suggests that renewed moral vision is a prerequisite to devising workable institutions for a post cold war world

Customary International Humanitarian Law Jean-Marie Henckaerts, Louise Doswald-Beck, 2005 In 1996 the International Committee of the Red Cross alongside a range of renowned experts embarked upon a major international study into current state practice in international humanitarian law in order to identify customary law in this area This book is the result of that study a comprehensive analysis of the customary rules of international humanitarian law applicable in international and non international armed conflicts Given that important treaties in this area have not yet been universally ratified this is a publication of major importance carried out at the express request of the international community In so doing this study identifies the common core of international humanitarian law binding on all parties to all armed conflicts

International and Local Actors in Disaster Response Tania N. Haddad, 2022-06-19 International and Local Actors in Disaster Response uses the Beirut explosion in August 2020 to explore disaster prevention and response in developing states Disasters whether man made or natural have always tested governments and their bureaucracies Despite numerous research efforts existing empirical literature does not provide conclusive evidence on how multiple aspects of social infrastructure can simultaneously affect disaster preparedness and recovery and what role the international community can have This book analyzes the role of international and local organizations in responding to the disaster in Beirut and assesses the interorganizational collaboration between the public and private sectors following the explosion The author develops a conceptual framework of government non profit relations in post disaster management and examines the long term disaster response and intervention of both international and local communities in a developing world context This book will be of interest to students scholars and researchers of disaster management and response public administration international relations and the non profit sector

Foreign Aid of Gulf States Mohammad Yaghi, Hanaa Almoaibed, Silvia Colombo, 2025-09-29 This book explores how Gulf States foreign aid strategies have transformed in the wake of 9 11 and the 2011 Arab Uprisings It traces the shift from a solidarity based model to aid increasingly driven by political and military objectives particularly in conflict zones like Yemen Libya and Syria The book analyzes enduring traits and evolving trends in aid allocation highlighting a growing emphasis on humanitarian assistance transparency and alignment with global governance norms Yet a persistent preference for bilateral aid raises questions about long term impact and transparency The politicization of aid post 2011 reveals how Gulf donors wield aid as a tool of geopolitical influence Looking ahead the book outlines a research agenda that examines the rebranding of Gulf aid the implications of its militarization the role of economic diversification and the influence of shifting regional dynamics such as Saudi Iran relations and the Abraham Accords on future strategies This book is essential reading for scholars policymakers and practitioners in international development political science Middle Eastern studies and global governance The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly
