Council, 1960 Berkeley Keota Fields, 2011-03-15 Berkeley Ideas Immaterialism and Objective Presence offers a novel interpretation of the arc of George Berkeley's philosophical thought from his theory of vision through his immaterialism and finally to his proof of God's existence Keota Fields unifies these themes to focus on Berkeley's use of the Cartesian doctrine of objective presence which demands causal explanations of the content of ideas This is particularly so with respect to Berkeley's arguments for immaterialism One of those arguments is typically read as a straightforward transitivity argument After identifying material bodies with sensible objects and the latter with ideas of sense Berkeley concludes that putative material bodies are actually identical to collections of ideas of sense George Pappas has recently defended an alternative reading that grounds Berkeley's immaterialism in his rejection of what Pappas calls category transcendent abstract ideas abstract ideas of beings entia or existence Fields uses Pappas's interpretation as a framework for understanding Berkeley's immaterialism in terms of transcendental arguments Early moderns routinely used the doctrine of objective presence to justify transcendental arguments for the existence of material substance The claim was that physical qualities are necessary for any causal explanation of the content of sensory ideas since those qualities are represented to perceivers as ontologically dependent material substance is the necessary condition for the existence of physical qualities and a fortiori any causal explanation of the content of sensory ideas On the reading defended here Berkeley rejects Locke's transcendental argument for the existence of material substratum on the grounds that it turns decisively on the aforementioned category transcendent abstract ideas which Berkeley rejects as logically inconsistent In its place Berkeley offers his own transcendental argument designed to show that only minds and ideas exist He uses that argument as a
