Speight,2016-08-26 It is the continuous reports of unethical behavior in the form of data manipulation cheating plagiarism and other forms of unacceptable behavior that draw attention to the issues of misconduct The causes of misconduct are manifold whether it is the need to advance in a chosen discipline or to compete successfully for and obtain research funding Disappointingly individuals who are oriented to any form of dishonesty are individuals who had previously displayed little or no consideration for the feelings of others and are therefore more interested in themselves at the expense of the students and others recognizing them by any means necessary This ground breaking and honest examination of ethics in the university setting is unabashed in its descriptions of misconduct in the academic world The text is well furnished with numerous citations that point to academic misconduct and the final chapter deals with the means by which misconduct can be mitigated a strong reminder to everyone in the academic community that above board conduct must be part of our overall message of learning and part of the whole point of education in the first place A must have for academics and non academics alike this text is the second in a series of books on ethics by James G Speight and it is useful to anyone in any industry who is interested in ethical behavior and how to navigate the sometimes murky depths of our professional lives

DFID Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2012-02-03 The DFID s transfer programmes deliver cash food and assets such as livestock directly to people living in poverty Transfers can be used to tackle a range of issues such as hunger and malnutrition or access to health and education services in a variety of contexts In 2010 11 the Department spent 192 million on social protection programmes which includes its transfer programmes The evidence heard suggests transfer programmes are effective in targeting aid and ensuring the money goes directly to the poorest and most vulnerable people It is therefore surprising that the use of transfer programmes has not increased The Department only plans to support transfer programmes in 17 of its 28 priority countries It does not have an overall strategy for the use of transfers and its decisions on where to support transfer programmes look reactive The decision as to whether or not to propose a transfer programme is taken by staff working in the country and it is not clear why there are extensive programmes in some countries and none in others The Department does not collect data on all the costs of the transfer programmes it supports and the Department is therefore unable to say whether it is lifting more people out of poverty for every pound spent on transfers compared to other programmes The Department s long term objective is for the governments of recipient countries to take on the responsibility of owning and funding transfers as part of a sustainable social security system However the Department has not been clear about how individual programmes will be
