Nation of Killers: Guns, Violence, White Supremacy: The American Dream

Become Delusion Jack Carney, DSW, 2015-10-05 In recent years the American dream has been usurped taking numerous opportunities away from ordinary working class middle class Americans In Nation of Killers author Jack Carney shares what he believes has gone wrong and what might be done to address and correct it Carney offers readers information they might not otherwise have seeking to provoke them into reconsidering some conclusions about this country and its future direction He argues that violence rooted in white supremacist ideology has been employed by one percenters and their surrogates to promote the country's nineteenth century expansion and its modern imperialist adventures and to subjugate those of its citizens who have been politically and economically marginalized since the nation's founding Jericho Charles

Bowden, 2020-05-01 When Charles Bowden died in 2014 he left behind an archive of unpublished manuscripts Jericho marks the fifth installment in his venerable Unnatural History of America sextet In it he invokes the cycles of destruction and rebirth that have defined the ancient biblical city over millennia From the ruins of Jericho's walls Bowden reflects on the continuum of war and violence the many conquests of the Americas the US Mexican War the Vietnam War and the ongoing militarization of our southern border to argue against the false promise of security that is offered when men build that wall Walls both real and imagined will always come tumbling down Along the way Bowden tells stories of loss and violence like that of David Hartley who mysteriously vanishes on Falcon Lake of murdered drug runners and their cartel bosses and of a haunted sicario or hitman who is running from his past and compulsively confesses his sins as he searches for an absolution that will never come Set against these scenes of trauma and violence are Bowden's gorgeous meditations on nature dancing cranes soaring eagles winding paths that traverse mountains lakes and deserts And threaded throughout are the heroic narratives of men like Martin Luther King Jr who defied the boundaries that surrounded him and was able to reshape the arc of history Jericho is a remarkable affirmation of our shared humanity and a timely rejection of violence and nationalism by one of our most prophetic writers working at the height of his powers

Interrogating the Neoliberal Lifecycle Beverly Clack, Michele Paule, 2018-12-14 In this timely collection contributors from a number of disciplines discuss neoliberal visions of success and the subsequent effects they have on the construction of the lifecycle Frequently mentioned in popular political discourse the notion of neoliberalism is often deployed as shorthand for the consensus that austerity is necessary and the hard working individual can survive it This volume unpicks and interrogates the term by engaging with the interface between the political ubiquity of neoliberal forms and its lived experience in neoliberal societies cutting across a multiplicity of factors including gender age and access to education Impressive in its wide scope and analysis Interrogating the Neoliberal Lifecycle presents an informed discussion not only of the limits of the neoliberal paradigm but also of possible alternatives

Waveform Marcia Aldrich, 2016-12-15 Waveform celebrates the role of women essayists in contemporary literature. Historically, women have been instrumental in moving the essay to center stage and Waveform continues this rich tradition, further expanding the dynamic genre's boundaries and testing its edges. With thirty essays by thirty distinguished and diverse women writers, this carefully constructed anthology incorporates works ranging from the traditional to the experimental. Waveform champions the diversity of women's approaches to the structure of the essay today, a site of invention and innovation with experiments in collage, fragments, segmentation, braids, triptychs, and diptychs. Focused on these explorations of form, Waveform is not wed to a fixed theme or even to women's experiences per se. It is not driven by subject matter but highlights the writer's interaction with all manner of subject and circumstance through style, voice, tone, and structure. This anthology presents some of the women who are shaping the essay today, mapping an ever-changing landscape. It is designed to place essays recently written by women such as Roxane Gay, Cheryl Strayed, Margo Jefferson, Jaquira Diaz, and Eula Biss into the hands of those who have been waiting patiently for something they could equally claim as their own.

Contributors: Marcia Aldrich, Jocelyn Bartkevicius, Chelsea Biondolillo, Eula Biss, Barrie Jean Borich, Joy Castro, Meghan Daum, Jaquira Diaz, Laurie Lynn Drummond, Patricia Foster, Roxane Gay, Leslie Jamison, Margo Jefferson, Sonja Livingston, Alexandria Marzano-Lesnevich, Brenda Miller, Michele Morano, Kyoko Mori, Bich Minh Nguyen, Adriana Paramo, Jericho Parks, Torrey Peters, Kristen Radtke, Wendy Rawlings, Cheryl Strayed, Dana Tommasino, Sarah Valentine, Neela Vaswani, Nicole Walker, Amy Wright.

The Long Run Catriona Menzies-Pike, 2017-05-23 An unlikely marathoner finds her way through grief and into the untold history of women and running. Thirty-year-old Catriona Menzies-Pike defined herself in many ways: voracious reader, pub crawler, feminist backpacker, and, since her parents' deaths a decade earlier, orphan. Runner was nowhere near the list. Yet when she began training for a half marathon on a whim, she found herself an instant convert. Soon she realized that running a pace suited to the precarious labor of memory was helping her to grieve the loss of her parents in ways that she had been for ten messy years running away from. As Catriona excavates her own past, she also grows curious about other women drawn to running. What she finds is a history of repression and denial; running was thought to endanger childbearing, and as late as 1967 the organizer of the Boston Marathon tried to drag a woman off the course, telling her to get the hell out of my race but also of incredible courage and achievement. As she brings to life the stories of pioneering athletes and analyzes the figure of the woman runner in pop culture literature and myth, she comes to the heart of why she's running and why any of us do.

Enlightenment in the Colony Aamir R.

Mufti, 2009-01-10. Enlightenment in the Colony opens up the history of the Jewish question for the first time to a broader discussion, one of the social exclusion of religious and cultural minorities in modern times and in particular the crisis of Muslim identity in modern India. Aamir Mufti identifies the Hindu-Muslim conflict in India as a colonial variation of what he calls the exemplary crisis of minority Jewishness in Europe. He shows how the emergence of this conflict in the late nineteenth century represented an early instance of the reinscription of the Jewish question in a non-Western society undergoing modernization under colonial rule. In so doing, he charts one particular route by which this European phenomenon linked to nation states takes on a global significance. Mufti examines the literary dimensions of this crisis of identity through close readings of canonical texts of modern Western, mostly British, literature as well as major works of modern Indian literature in Urdu and English. He argues that the one characteristic shared by all emerging national cultures since the nineteenth century is the minoritization of some social and cultural fragment of the population and that national belonging and minority separatism go hand in hand with modernization. Enlightenment in the Colony calls for the adoption of secular minority and exilic perspectives in criticism and intellectual life as a means to critique the very forms of marginalization that give rise to the uniquely powerful minority voice in world literatures.
