Economy Identity through Information Technology and its Safety Rachel John Robinson, This empirical research is to study Information Technology (IT) operations and security controls regarding its perception and handling mechanism. The sector chosen was relevant to a common man's daily business so that the IT controls and organizational implications are both covered and are well aligned for protected and guarded cyber boundaries from the economic perspective in the country. With the government being well supportive in cracking a balance between the citizens' rights and the organizational sectors' responsibilities, the study is directed considering its patterns. It is arrived to find whether a particular sector in terms of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) operations has well laid out controls and is in line with the statutes brought out by the country for compliance. The sector chosen was the Banking industry in the Finance Sector for its back-end operations. This sectoral concentration is narrowed down to commercial e-banking services and its security concerns to support customers and business operations. The future looks promising as the IT industry is gearing itself well for the next phase of development along with challenges.
