Towards a Better Global Economy Franklin Allen, Jere Richard Behrman, Nancy Birdsall, Shahrokh Fardoust, Dani Rodrik, Andrew D. Steer, Arvind Subramanian, 2014 Substantial progress in the fight against extreme poverty was made in the last two decades But the slowdown in global economic growth and significant increases in income inequality in many developed and developing countries raise serious concerns about the continuation of this trend into the 21st century The time has come to seriously think about how improvements in official global governance coupled with and reinforced by rising activism of global citizens can lead to welfare enhancing and more equitable results for global citizens through better national and international policies This book examines the factors that are most likely to facilitate the process of beneficial economic growth in low middle and high income countries It examines past present and future economic growth demographic changes the hyperglobalization of trade the effect of finance on growth climate change and resource depletion and the sense of global citizenship and the need for global governance in order to draw longer term implications identify policy options for improving the lives of average citizens around the world and make the case for the need to confront new challenges with truly global policy responses The book documents how demographic changes convergence and competition are likely to bring about massive shifts in the sectoral and geographical composition of global output and employment as the center of gravity of the global economy moves toward Asia and emerging economies elsewhere It shows that the legacies of the 2008-09 crisis high unemployment levels massive excess capacities and high debt levels are likely to reduce the standard of living of millions of people in many countries over a long period of adjustment and that fluctuations in international trade financial markets and commodity prices as well as the tendency of institutions at both the national and international level to favor the interests of the better off and more powerful pose substantial risks for citizens of all countries The chapters and their policy implications are intended to stimulate public interest and facilitate the exchange of ideas and policy dialogue

Spinks, 2013-07-18 The Self Transforming School combines an insightful meta analysis of factors contributing to the success of schools and an examination of powerful mega trends that are shaping developments in education to offer the first mega analysis in education policy and practice The book spans fifty years beginning with Caldwell and Spinks ground breaking work The Self Managing School which advocated innovative approaches that are now accepted as preferred practice before offering a prognosis and plan for the future The book argues that all schools in all settings can secure success for all students in an era where society and the economy are changing constantly and dramatically Although schools find some support in local and global networks externally designed re structuring re staffing or command and control direction isn't sufficient to achieve transformation Instead of replicating particular approaches to achieve modest improvement leadership of the highest quality needs to be deeply embedded in schools and their systems Caldwell and Spinks propose three important points that need to be taken into consideration schools are often at different stages of self transformation self transformation requires a high level of professionalism and must include teacher education and on going professional development funding is critically important and efforts to build a capacity for self transformation are constrained by what is available The book gives particular attention to developments in Australia Brazil Canada England Finland Hong Kong India New Zealand Shanghai Singapore and the United States It will be of key interest to school leaders policy makers and academics and postgraduate students engaged in research on equity student performance in highly disadvantaged settings and education policy

A Shrinking Society Toshihiko Hara,2014-11-14 This is the book to focus on a new phenomenon emerging in the twenty first century the rapidly aging and decreasing population of a well developed country namely Japan The meaning of this phenomenon has been successfully clarified as the possible historical consequence of the demographic transition from high birth and death rates to low ones Japan has entered the post demographic transitional phase and will be the fastest shrinking society in the world leading other Asian countries that are experiencing the same drastic changes The author used the historical statistics compiled by the Statistic Bureau Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications in 2006 and population projections for released in 2012 by the National Institute of Population and Social Security Research to show the past and future development of the dependency ratio from 1891 to 2060 Then utilizing the population life table and net reproduction rate the effects of increasing life expectancy and declining fertility on the dependency ratio were observed separately Finally the historical relationships among women s survival rates at reproductive age the theoretical fertility rate to maintain the replacement level and the recorded total fertility rate TFR were analyzed Historical observation showed TFR adapting to the theoretical level of fertility with a certain time lag and corresponding to women s survival rates at reproductive age Women s increasing lifespan and survival rates could have influenced decision making to minimize the risk of childbearing Even if the theoretical fertility rate meets the replacement level women s views of minimizing the risk may remain unchanged because for women the cost benefit imbalance in childbearing is still too high in Japan Based on the findings the author discusses the sustainability of Japanese society in relation to national finances social security reform family policies immigration policies and community polices
