African Studies Ian Brown, 2016-07-21 The School of Oriental and African Studies a college of the University of London was established in 1916 principally to train the colonial administrators who ran the British Empire in the languages of Asia and Africa It was founded that is with an explicitly imperial purpose Yet the School would come to transcend this function to become a world centre of scholarship and learning in many important ways challenging that imperial origin Drawing on the School s own extensive administrative records on interviews with current and past staff and on the records of government departments Ian Brown explores the work of the School over its first century He considers the expansion in the School s configuration of studies from the initial focus on languages its changing relationships with government and the major contributions that have been made by the School to scholarly and public understandings of Asia Africa and the Middle East
