indicated that thinking consistently back at what they remembered at the time, this could be considered positive evidence that some concepts that feature within the structure of mathematics are being progressively digested and assimilated (within the following)

On this basis it appears the major concern that arises seems to be:

Mathematical Representation the student's ability to represent a situation in terms of a diagram, or a mathematical model, and to use this model to solve a problem.

Mathematical Reasoning

Problem Solving the student's ability to solve a problem by using mathematical knowledge and skills.

Mathematical Communication the student's ability to communicate mathematical ideas and to use mathematical language.

Mathematical Connections the student's ability to make connections between mathematical concepts and to use these connections to solve a problem.

Mathematical Understanding the student's ability to understand mathematical concepts and to use this understanding to solve a problem.

Mathematical Proficiency

Mathematical Reasoning the student's ability to use mathematical knowledge and skills to solve a problem.
