Barton Collection,José Francisco Carret,1888 Dynamic Dichotomy Catherine Attwood,1998 The principal concern of this book expounded in the first chapter is to chart the development of literary awareness amongst poets of the later Middle Ages whose marked stance of professional independence led them increasingly to distinguish between their implied literary selves and the first person speakers of their texts Four chapters examine by means of close stylistic analysis the implications of such detachment taken as a model of binary opposition for the elaboration of the first person speaker Thus in the case of Machaut the essential distinction is between the first person and the second or third the I and the Other with Froissart between the I of the present and the I of the past with Deschamps between the internal I of the poet and a vast array of external personae with Christine de Pizan between the blueprint of a persona evolved by the poet for her internal I and the transformations implied by its imposition on external personae The final chapter on the poetics of debate explores the means by which the I may be divided in order to arrive at an objective knowledge of both its own nature and of external truths the ideal expression of which is the written record of the debate itself It is the primacy of the Book as an autonomous entity which ultimately exercises the most far reaching influence on the development of the poetic I in this period Medieval Codicology. Advertising the Self in Renaissance France explores how authors and readers are represented in printed editions of three major literary figures Jean Lemaire de Belges Cl ment Marot and Fran ois Rabelais Print culture is marked by an anxiety of reception that became much more pronounced with increasingly anonymous and unpredictable readerships in the sixteenth century To allay this anxiety authors as well as editors and printers turned to self fashioning in order to sell not only their books but also particular ways of reading They advertised correct modes of reading as transformative experiences offered by selfless authors that would help the actual reader attain the image of the ideal reader held up by the text and paratext Thus authorial personae were constructed around the self fashioning offered to readers creating an interdependent relationship that anticipated modern advertising Distributed for the University of Delaware Press Catalogue of the Dramas and
