

Historical Fiction Reading Teaching Points

Date	Teaching Point
	It is the job of a good reader to identify the historical details and distinguish them from the purely fictional ones, to better understand the backdrop of the novel. Readers pay attention to historical events, real places, cultural artifacts, historical language/slang, and realistic characters.
	In historical fiction stories, the setting is a significant part of the story. Good readers analyze the pictures to synthesize the clues about the physical and emotional setting, by noticing details, so they can understand the author's message in the story. Physical Setting: Transportation, Clothing, Housing Emotional Setting: Mood (Trust vs. Mistrust), weather
	Good readers ask themselves questions about the setting such as: "Why might the author have made it storm just now?" or "What am I supposed to be thinking," so they are alert not to just the facts, but to the tone and mood of the story.
	In historical fiction, readers must understand the impact of the time period on the story by creating a timeline of historical events, as well as a time line of pivotal moments of the main character, so they can understand that the characters exist in a relationship with history.
	We know readers of historical fiction use tools to hold onto all of the parts of the story. Readers can keep track of the historical time period and theme by keeping a list of key words and biographies with photos & notes on each character.
	Good readers study the past histories of characters in a novel because they are an important key to understanding the actions, thoughts, and feelings of the character in the present. We study a character's past by looking for information about a character's background, by identifying memories or flashbacks, or by paying attention to the sequence of a story, to distinguish past from present.
	Strong readers of historical fiction need to gather information quickly, because the beginning is filled with important details we need to take through the story. Strong readers use tools to keep track of events: timelines, flow maps, map w/ sketches & Xs of the setting & key events.
	Good readers understanding the author's intended purpose of the story by analyzing whether the setting is part of the problem in the story (escaping the Holocaust) or operates at a symbolic level (dust of the prairie may mean more than simply that the land is dry).

Historical Fiction Teaching Points:

Historical Fiction for Children Fiona M. Collins, Judith Graham, 2013-10-18 Historical fiction has a great deal to offer as its readers and devotees have always known. The time is ripe however for the historical novel and historical picture book to be promoted more emphatically so that many more are made aware of the delight and learning to be found in the genre. The editors of this book invited authors, academic writers and teachers to reflect on the nature, scope, range and richness of historical fiction for children. What is collected here provides an overview of the field, a consideration of significant writers of historical fiction from the nineteenth century onwards, a sense of the various historical eras commonly explored, Stone Age to World War 2, a discussion of commonly raised issues, themes and topics such as child labor, slavery and migration, and a forum for writers to reveal their insights into the writing of historical fiction. Julian Atterton, Berlie Doherty, Michael Foreman and Philip Pullman have made contributions. It provides evidence of children and students engaging creatively with historical fiction.

Teaching Historical Fiction with Ready-Made Literature Circles for Secondary Readers Carianne Bernadowski, Kelly Morgano, 2011-10-24 This comprehensive step-by-step guide provides practical guidance to implement literature circles in any social studies or language arts classroom. This book provides a how-to guide for a novice or veteran teacher or library media specialist who is interested in implementing literature circles with high-interest texts. After an introduction that covers the research findings on literature circles and supplies a framework for implementation of literature circles in the classroom and library, Teaching Historical Fiction with Ready Made Literature Circles for Secondary Readers presents 14 selected historical fiction titles for grades 7 through 12 that lend themselves perfectly to interdisciplinary teaching. Each selection is accompanied by bibliographic information, an annotation, vocabulary words, discussion questions, and guided reading questions, as well as lessons for before, during, and after reading. The titles included cover many historical time periods and topics that can easily align with state and national standards. Just as importantly, these are texts that a history teacher or literature instructor would find beneficial to use with students.
