History Perparatory Paper 1 2014:

A Modern Legal History of Treasure N.M. Dawson, 2023-04-06 This book examines treasure law and practice from the rise of the new science of archaeology in the early Victorian period to the present day Drawing on largely unexamined state records and other archives the book covers several legal jurisdictions England and Wales Scotland Ireland pre and post independence and post partition Northern Ireland From the Mold gold cape 1833 to the Broughton hoard 1896 from Sutton Hoo 1939 to the Galloway hoard 2014 the law of treasure trove and the Treasure Act 1996 are considered through the prism of notable archaeological discoveries and from the perspectives of finders landowners archaeologists museum professionals collectors the state and the public Literally and metaphorically treasure law is revealed as a ground breaking chapter in the history of the legal protection of cultural property and cultural heritage in Britain and Ireland

Explorations in History and Globalization Cátia Antunes, Karwan Fatah-Black, 2016-04-14 Considering the ways in which the global turn is changing the theory and practice of historical disciplines Explorations in History and Globalization engages with the concept and methodology of globalization challenging traditional divisions of space and time to offer a range of perspectives on how globalization has affected social economic political and cultural history Each chapter covers a specific theme discussing how globalization has shaped these themes and how they have contributed to globalization throughout history Including topics such as ecological exchanges trade exchanges of knowledge migration empire and urbanization this volume both explains historical trajectories through a global analytical framework and provides tools that students can employ when posing their own research questions about historical globalization Containing suggestions for further reading and guidance on the ways in which primary source material can be used as a basis for global historical studies this is the ideal volume for all students interested in the global exchanges between people throughout history

The Oxford English Literary History Laura Ashe, 2017-09-15 The Oxford English Literary History is the new century's definitive account of a rich and diverse literary heritage that stretches back for a millennium and more Each of these thirteen groundbreaking volumes offers a leading scholar's considered assessment of the author's works cultural traditions events and ideas that shaped the literary voices of their age The series will enlighten and inspire not only everyone studying teaching and researching in English Literature but all serious readers This book describes and seeks to explain the vast cultural literary social and political transformations which characterized the period 1000-1350 Change can be perceived everywhere at this time Theology saw the focus shift from God the Father to the suffering Christ while religious experience became ever more highly charged with emotional affectivity and physical devotion A new philosophy of interiority turned attention inward to the exploration of self and the practice of confession expressed that interior reality with unprecedented importance The old understanding of penitence as a whole and unrepeatable event a second baptism was replaced by a new allowance for repeated repentance and penance and the possibility of continued purgation of sins after death The concept of love moved centre stage in Christ's love as a new explanation for the Passion in the love of God as the only means of governing the self and in the appearance of narrative fiction where heterosexual love was suddenly represented as the goal of secular life In this mode of writing further emerged the figure of the individual a unique protagonist bound in social and ethical relation with others from this came a profound recalibration of moral agency with reference not only to God but to society More generally the social and ethical status of secular lives was drastically elevated by the creation and celebration of courtly and chivalric ideals In England the ideal of kingship was forged and reforged over these centuries in intimate relation with native ideals of counsel and consent bound by the law In the aftermath of Magna Carta and as parliament grew in reach and importance a politics of the public sphere emerged with a literature to match These vast transformations have long been observed and documented in their separate fields The Oxford English Literary History Volume 1 1000 1350 Conquest and Transformation offers an account of these changes by which they are all connected and explicable in terms of one another

Gerald Howard-Smith and the 'Lost Generation' of Late Victorian and Edwardian England John Benson, 2016-11-18 Gerald Howard Smith's life is intriguing both in its own right and as a vehicle for exploring the world in which he lived Tall boisterous and sometimes rather irascible he was one of the so called Lost Generation whose lives were cut short by the First World War Brought up in London and educated at Eton and Cambridge he excelled both at cricket and athletics After qualifying as a solicitor he moved to Wolverhampton and threw himself into the local sporting scene making a considerable name for himself in the years before the First World War Volunteering for military service in 1914 he was decorated for bravery before being killed in action two years later Reporting his death the War History of the South Staffordshire Regiment claimed that In his men's eyes he lived as a loose limbed hero and in him they lost a very humorous and a very gallant gentleman As well as telling the fascinating story of Gerald Howard Smith for the first time this important new biography explores such complex and important issues as childhood and adolescence class relations sporting achievement manliness and masculinity metropolitan provincial relationships and forms of commemoration It will therefore be of interest to educationalists sports historians local and regional historians and those interested in class gender and civilian military relations indeed all those seeking to understand the economic social and cultural life of late nineteenth and early twentieth century Britain

Transnationalism, Gender and the History of Education Deirdre Raftery, Marie Clarke, 2018-10-03 In the past decade historians have begun to make use of the optic of transnationalism a perspective used traditionally by social anthropologists and sociologists in their study of the movement and flow of ideas between continents and countries Historical scholarship has adopted this tool and in this book historians of education use it to add nuance and depth to research on gender and education and particularly to the education experiences of women and girls The book brings together a group of internationally regarded scholars who are doing important research on transnationalism and the social construction of gender with particular reference to education environments such as schools and colleges The book is therefore very much at the cutting edge of theoretical and methodological advances in the history of education This book was originally published as a special issue of the History of Education

Landscape and Society in Dumnonia Stephen Rippon, 2025-08-15 Explores South West England's development from the Iron Age through medieval times focusing on Ipplepen This book explores the distinctive landscape and society of South West England that had emerged by the Iron Age and which continued to develop during the Roman and medieval periods A focus of the research was the long term programme of survey and excavation on the Iron Age Roman and early medieval settlement at Dainton Elms Cross in Ipplepen Devon which included the only Roman roadside settlement to have seen extensive excavation to the south and west of Exeter on the very edge of the Roman empire as well as a substantial early medieval cemetery First discovered through the reporting of an unusual concentration of Roman finds to the Portable Antiquities Scheme the site was investigated through a joint university and community project led by the University of Exeter in partnership with the British Museum PAS Devon County Council and Cotswold Archaeology What for the South West of England was exceptional preservation meant that large amounts of animal bone charred cereals and human remains were preserved alongside a regionally important material culture assemblage The site which had been occupied for c 1200 years was abandoned around the 8th century AD A programme of documentary place name and historic landscape research across a study area extending from the coast up onto Dartmoor explores the context of this major landscape change which appears to have been associated with the appearance of hamlets and open fields and the fragmentation of an early folk territory Together the excavations in Ipplepen and the wider contextual research reveal how communities living in South West England developed a distinctive identity that reflects a well developed understanding of their region s natural environment alongside a degree of ambivalence to outside cultural influences
