I. Contexte

La pêche à pied est une activité ancestrale et traditionnelle. Elle est, pour beaucoup, emblématique des congés au bord de la mer, ou de l'héritage culturel vivant des zones côtières. Et en tant qu'activité de plein air, gratuite et ouverte à tous, la pêche à pied est associée à une certaine idée de liberté du littoral. Longtemps, la fréquentation des littoraux est restée sans mesure précise... En 2008, l'institut de sondage BVA dans une étude pour l'IFREMER avançait le chiffre de 1,7 millions de pêcheurs à pied en France, mais sans que l'on connaisse les endroits où ces pêcheurs pratiquent l'activité.

Dans le cadre du programme LIFE+ « Expérimentation pour une gestion durable et concertée de la pêche à pied récréative » des comptages nationaux des pêcheurs à pied sont organisés à chaque marée d'équinoxe. Ils s'appuient en grande majorité sur la répartition de compteurs bénévoles le long de la côte, ceux-ci permettant d'avoir une image instantanée de l'activité sur l'ensemble du territoire couvert. Pour le golfe normand-breton, ce territoire va du Cap d'Erquy en Côtes d'Armor, jusqu'au Cap de la Hague dans le nord Cotentin.

Le 20 Mars 2015 a eu lieu le troisième comptage de ce type au sein du programme LIFE+.

II. Mobilisation

Sur l'ensemble du site d'étude, ce sont 46 personnes réparties sur 28 secteurs qui ont participé simultanément à la réalisation de ce comptage. Cela a représenté environ 160 km de côte observée soit approximativement 65% du linéaire que compte le golfe normand-breton. Comme lors du comptage précédent, on peut faire une distinction entre le taux de couverture obtenu en Bretagne (82% sur les deux départements confondus, +15% net par rapport à Septembre 2014) et celui de la Manche (52%, +22% net par rapport à Septembre 2014).
