Ovarian Cancer Targeted Medication: PARP Inhibitors, Anti-Angiogenic Drugs, Immunotherapy, and More, volume II Zhaoqian Liu, Jing Wang, Naiyuan Wu, Guang Lei, Zhi-Bin Wang, 2025-02-21 Ovarian cancer is the malignancy with the highest rate of death from tumors of the female reproductive system and the main treatment options are tumor reduction and post-surgical platinum-based chemotherapy. Unfortunately, some patients will develop platinum resistance after multiple recurrences. Given that ovarian cancer is a heterogeneous disease with complex molecular and genetic alterations, the identification of specific molecular targets will be of great benefit in gaining a deeper understanding of the mechanisms of ovarian cancer development and progression. As research into targeted therapies continues, the treatment of ovarian cancer is gradually shifting from conventional chemotherapy to targeted therapies. Targeted drugs such as PARP inhibitors and anti-angiogenic drugs have become important modalities for the maintenance treatment of ovarian cancer. At the same time, targeted therapy also suffers from ineffective use, high rates of adverse reactions, and high prices. With the development of next-generation sequencing technology, targeted therapeutic agents developed for specific molecules in ovarian cancer may provide a wider range of treatment options for ovarian cancer patients and offer new strategies for individualized treatment. Immunotherapy as well as ferroptosis pathway modulation has also provided new ideas for targeted therapy in ovarian cancer.

Class Act Anne-Marie Mooney Cotter, 2016-05-23 Even today, class discrimination remains an important global legal issue. This book allows readers a better understanding of the issue of class discrimination and inequality, including the role of education in bridging the class systems. The study seeks to increase the likelihood of achieving equality at both the national and international levels for those suffering class discrimination as the international population becomes increasingly educated, looking at the primary role of legislation which has an impact on the court process. It also discusses the two most important trade agreements of our day namely the North American Free Trade Agreement and the European Union Treaty in a historical and compelling analysis of discrimination By providing a detailed examination of the relationship between class and education as they relate to the law the book will be an important read for those concerned with equality

Bristow, Andrew John Li, 2012-07-13 Essential Gynecologic Oncology will be the most comprehensive single resource on the topic. Currently all texts in the field present either a medical discussion or surgical procedures. Available surgical atlases are either terribly outdated or shockingly expensive. EGO will be the first to combine these two kinds of resources in a single affordable volume. Each topic is written by experts and is presented in an easily accessible, consistent presentation that highlights clinical practice guidelines along with the diagnosis and treatment of specific malignancies. This authoritative coverage is reinforced by the state of the art surgical atlas which offers a richly illustrated overview of essential procedures designed to build your knowledge and confidence. Evidence-Based Practice for Public Health Emergency Preparedness and Response

National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on Evidence-Based Practices for Public Health Emergency Preparedness and Response, 2020-11-28 When communities face complex public health emergencies, state, local, tribal, and territorial public health agencies must make difficult decisions regarding how to effectively respond. The public health emergency preparedness and response (PHEPR) system, with its multifaceted mission to prevent, protect against, quickly respond to, and recover from public health emergencies, is inherently complex and encompasses policies, organizations, and programs. Since the events of September 11, 2001, the United States has invested billions of dollars and immeasurable amounts of human capital to develop and enhance public health emergency preparedness and infrastructure to respond to a wide range of public health threats, including infectious diseases, natural disasters, and chemical, biological, radiological, and nuclear events. Despite the investments in research and the growing body of empirical literature on a range of preparedness and response capabilities and functions, there has been no national-level comprehensive review and grading of evidence for public health emergency preparedness and response practices comparable to those utilized in medicine and other public health fields. Evidence-Based Practice for Public Health Emergency Preparedness and Response reviews the state of the evidence on PHEPR practices and the improvements necessary to move the field forward and to strengthen the PHEPR system. This publication evaluates PHEPR evidence to understand the balance of benefits and harms of PHEPR practices, with a focus on four main areas of PHEPR engagement: with and training of community-based partners to improve the outcomes of at-risk populations after public health emergencies; activation of a public health emergency operations center; communication of public health alerts and guidance to technical audiences during a public health emergency; and implementation of quarantine to reduce the spread of contagious illness. Cancer: Principles and Practice of Oncology Primer of
