Ultra-Processed Foods and Human and Planetary Health Gustavo Cediel, Fernanda Rauber, Raquel Mendonça, Adriana Meireles, Maria Alvim Leite, Maria Gombi-Vaca, 2023-10-27 The NOVA system is a food

classification system based on the degree and purpose of industrial food processing NOVA which introduced ultra processed as a food category has been widely employed within the research community and is increasingly used by national governments international organisations and civil society Ultra processed foods UPF are defined as formulations of food derived substances e g fats sugars starch protein isolate that contain little if any whole food and include classes of additives whose function is to make the final product palatable or more appealing cosmetic additives like colours flavours and emulsifiers The impact of the production and consumption of ultra processed foods on human and planetary health has been acknowledged and has started to gather global attention more recently Because UPFs have become dominant components in diets of populations worldwide there is an urgent need to scrutinise the human health sustainability and food environment impacts across a range of populations and country contexts and to understand the implications of their consumption for health inequalities
