The Essential Guide to Writing History Essays Katherine Pickering Antonova, 2020 The Essential Guide to Writing History Essays is a step by step guide to the typical assignments of any undergraduate or master's level history program in North America. Effective writing is a process of discovery achieved through the continual act of making choices: what to include or exclude, how to order elements and which style to choose, each according to the author's goals and the intended audience. The book integrates reading and specialized vocabulary with writing and revision and addresses the evolving nature of digital media while teaching the terms and logic of traditional sources and the reasons for citation as well as the styles. This approach to writing not only helps students produce an effective final product and build from writing simple short essays to completing a full research thesis, it also teaches students why and how an essay is effective, empowering them to approach new writing challenges with the freedom to find their own voice.

The Construction of Negotiated Meaning Linda Flower, 1994 Based on five years of close observation of students writing and collaborative planning, the practice in which student writers take the roles of planner and supporter to help each other develop a more rhetorically sophisticated writing plan, foremost cognitive composition researcher Linda Flower redefines writing in terms of an interactive social and cognitive process and proposes a convincing and compelling theory of the construction of negotiated meaning. Flower seeks to describe how writers construct meaning. Supported by the emerging body of social and cognitive research in rhetoric education and psychology, she portrays meaning making as a literate act and a constructive process. She challenges traditional definitions of literacy, adding to that concept the elements of social literate practices and personal literate acts. In Flower's view, this social cognitive process is a source of tension and conflict among the multiple forces that shape meaning: the social and cultural context, the demands of discourse, and the writer's own goals and knowledge. Flower outlines a generative theory of conflict. With this conflict central to her theory of the construction of negotiated meaning, she examines negotiation as an alternative to the metaphors of reproduction and conversation. It is through negotiation Flower argues that social expectations discourse conventions and the writer s personal goals and knowledge become inner voices The tension among these forces often creates the hidden logic behind student writing In response to these conflicting voices writers sometimes rise to the active negotiation of meaning creating meaning in the interplay of alternatives opportunities and constraints Writing a Research Paper in Political Science Lisa A.
