

Lab Report Template

Title: * a brief, concise, yet descriptive title

Problem:

- * What question(s) are you trying to answer?
- * Include any preliminary observations or background information about the subject.

Hypothesis:

- * Write a possible solution for the problem.
- * Make sure this possible solution is a complete sentence.
- * Make sure the statement is testable, as if this statement is recommended to illustrate what criteria will support your hypothesis (and what data would not support the hypothesis).

Materials:

- * Make a list of ALL items used in the lab.

Procedure:

- * Write a paragraph (complete sentences) which explains what you did in the lab as a short summary.
- * Add details (step-by-step) of your procedure in such a way that anyone else could repeat the experiment. BE VERY CERTAIN TO BE PRECISE.

Results (Data):

- * This section should include any data tables, observations, or additional notes you make during the lab.
- * You may attach a separate sheet(s) if necessary.
- * All tables, graphs and charts should be labeled appropriately.

Conclusions:

- * Accept or reject your hypothesis.
- * EXPLAIN why you accepted or rejected your hypothesis using data from the lab.
- * Include a summary of the data - averages, highest, lowest, etc. to help the reader understand your results. Try not to copy your data here, you should summarize and reference ONLY information.
- * List one thing you learned and describe how it applies to a real-life situation.
- * Discuss possible errors that could have occurred in the collection of the data (experimental error).

Writing With Skill, Level 3: Student Workbook Susan Wise Bauer, 2014-11-16 This third volume of the groundbreaking writing series prepares students for advanced work in rhetoric and composition. Straightforward detailed instructions lead students through brainstorming, researching and constructing original compositions. Building on the first two levels of Writing With Skill, Level 3 reinforces skills in original composition and introduces new skills in researching, organizing and writing expository essays. Models from great writers provide inspiration; assignments in history, science, biography and literature expand the student's horizons. This third level is marked by a focus on writing about cause and effect as well as more advanced instruction in literary criticism, science writing, descriptions and paragraph construction. Time-tested classical techniques, the imitation and analysis of great writers, combine with original essay assignments. Along with the accompanying Instructor Guide, this Level Three Student Workbook provides a complete year of advanced middle-grade writing instruction.

Inquiry: The Key to Exemplary Science Robert Yager, 2009-06-17

The Idea of a Writing Laboratory Neal Lerner, 2009-07-09 The Idea of a Writing Laboratory is a book about possibilities about teaching and learning to write in ways that can transform both teachers and students. Author Neal Lerner explores higher education's rich history of writing instruction in classrooms, writing centers and science laboratories. By tracing the roots of writing and science education, Lerner recognizes that the method of the lab, hands-on student activity, is essential to learning. Lerner offers the hope that the idea of a writing laboratory will be fully realized more than a century after both fields began the experiment. Beginning in the late nineteenth century, writing instructors and science teachers recognized that mass instruction was inadequate for a burgeoning non-traditional student population and that experimental or laboratory methods could prove to be more effective. Lerner traces the history of writing instruction via laboratory methods and examines its successes and failures through case studies of individual programs and larger reform initiatives. Contrasting the University of Minnesota General College Writing Laboratory with the Dartmouth College Writing Clinic, for example, Lerner offers a cautionary tale of the fine line between experimenting with teaching students to write and curing the students of the disease of bad writing. The history of writing within science education also winds its way through Lerner's engaging work, presenting the pedagogical origins of laboratory methods to offer educators in science, in addition to those in writing studies, possibilities for long-sought-after reform. The Idea of a Writing Laboratory compels readers and writers to don those white coats and safety glasses and discover what works and asserts that teaching writing as an experiment in what is possible is a way of offering meaning-making opportunities for students no matter the subject matter. It is an endeavor worth the struggle.
