South African National Bibliography ,1998-07 Not Ever Absent: Storytelling in Arts, Culture and Identity Formation ,2019-01-04 This volume was first published by Inter Disciplinary Press in 2015 Storytelling has always played a central role in the formation of cultures and communities All cultures define themselves and their place in the world through their stories Similarly our identities are largely constructed as narratives and it is with the aid of storytelling that we manage to conceive of ourselves our selves as meaningful wholes Thus storytelling is not ever absent it is to be found in literature social life in the places we visit and the buildings we live in This volume presents storytelling in various appearances from ancient myths and oral history to transmedia narratives and digital stories Different forms of narrative are analysed as is the use of storytelling as a method for e g counselling education and research Throughout twenty five chapters a compelling overview of recent research on the topic is provided both stressing the omnipresence of storytelling and exploring what storytelling is and isn't Language of Instruction in Tanzania and South Africa - Highlights from a Project ,2010-01-01 This book is based on chapters in a series of four books from the first five years 2002 2006 of the Language of Instruction in Tanzania and South Africa LOITASA project LOITASA is a NUFU funded Norwegian University Fund project which began in January 2002 and will continue through to the end of 2011 The chapters reflect the state of the research at the end of the first five years of LOITASA in 2006 and were selected by reviewers independent of the project. The selection of chapters brought together bring to the forefront the dilemmas facing developing countries as they seek to position themselves in an increasingly interconnected global system while at the same time maintaining a sense of national and regional identity. The chapters in this collection reflect both positive outcomes when the medium of instruction is a widely known language as well as the challenges of mother tongue instruction in countries where historically a powerful language like English has dominated. The four LOITASA books in this series from which the chapters in this book are drawn are Language of instruction in Tanzania and South Africa LOITASA published by E Zubeida Desai the South African project leader and Martha Qorro who is on the project steering committee in Tanzania.

Primary Education in Crisis Brahm Fleisch, 2008. In the past decade the national preoccupation has been on the crisis in secondary schools. Lurking behind the intractable problem of low pass rates, the dysfunctional schools and the small number of higher grade mathematics and science graduates is the calamity in primary education. Drawing on the work of researchers in a range of fields including psychology, sociology, anthropology, linguistics, economics, the health sciences and mathematics education, this book documents the depth and scope of the primary education crisis and provides a comprehensive and rigorous explanation of its causes. Primary education in crisis pulls together the wealth of research on health, poverty, resources, language and teaching as factors in academic achievement in reading, writing and mathematics. At the centre of the book is an analysis of the published studies that systematically document what teachers teach and fail to teach and why it is that teaching is at the heart of the crisis in primary education. The author suggests that there are no quick fixes but only hard choices and that for reform to succeed it must be evidence based.

Focus on First Year Success Brenda Leibowitz, Antoinette Van der Merwe, Susan Van Schalkwyk, 2009-11-01. The importance of the first year experience is now well recognised. This collection of papers makes a fascinating and important contribution to our understanding of students' transition to higher education. This is a scholarly, engaging and illuminating text that is relevant not only in the context of South Africa but for anyone interested in student learning in the first year of university education. David Gosling, Plymouth University.

Neuroscience in Africa Nilesh B. Patel, Vivienne A. Russell, Nouria Lakhdar-Ghazal, 2019-06-28. This Research Topic covers some of the latest research on brain and behavior in health and disease in Africa. With its untapped resources and unique situations, Neuroscience in Africa has the potential to contribute to a better understanding of human brain function both in health and disease. The diverse African fauna display a range of specializations in brain structure-function relationships as a result of adaptations to the environment. Exploration of these may lead to insights into coping strategies which could be extrapolated to humans. Africa's unique flora is being investigated for anti-inflammatory, antinociceptive, antioxidant, antiepileptogenic and neuroprotective properties to determine its potential for use in the treatment of human brain disorders. There is also research on neurodegenerative and infectious diseases not only common to the global world but also neglected tropical diseases and conditions which provide unique avenues of investigations in basic and translational neuroscience on highly debilitating disorders and on the effects of pathogens and environmental toxins Drum ,2009-04 Safe Spaces Cornelia Roux,2012-10-26 This book examines the crucial issues affecting Human Rights Education in contexts of culture religious and societal diversity It exhibits an impressive scholarly achievement capturing and combining the insights of both established academics and emerging researchers Each author succeeds in distilling the knowledge of their particular fields of interest as well as conveying the essence of their intuitive understanding and the richness of the context This book considers a variety of connected content and methodological issues in three major sections Philosophical and policy perspectives Gender discourses diverse perspectives and Discourses on narratives as safe spaces The Edition is further strengthened by allowing international reviewers the opportunity of engaging with the contributors in the Introduction and Conclusion an innovative departure from conventional formats and which will provide a global perspective to the readers The focus of the various chapters succeeds in establishing both a foundation and platform for dialogue surrounding human rights and human rights education in modern policy and governance Aptly named Safe Spaces the Edition offers in depth and credible safe nuances spaces in terms of the somewhat reified concept of human rights at a time when human rights remains a highly topical and contested international issue As such the book imparts an immense scope of theoretical and empirical perspectives reflected by the distinguished intellectuals who navigate the terrain of their respective disciplines with profound erudition This book represents a collaborative effort of immeasurable value This exemplary edition is both timeless and will prove timeless Physical and Symbolic Borders and Boundaries and How They Unfold in Space Basak Tanulku,Simone Pekelsma,2024-03-05 This book critically examines how borders and boundaries physical and symbolic unfold in different geographies and spaces It aims to understand why they exist and how they are constructed deconstructed and reconstructed The book explores why certain borders boundaries persist while others are removed and new ones are erected It does not focus on one form of border boundary or geographic location It shifts its attention to different geographies borders and boundaries It also focuses on intersections between them and how they complete each other The book provides case studies from the past and present allowing readers to connect subjects periods and geographies The chapters address classical subjects such as nation states and tackle novel questions such as ownership against access that is of urban infrastructures COVID 19 and lockdowns and the divides within digital worlds The book benefits from visual essays that complement the theoretical and empirical chapters showing the complexity of the phenomenon in a simple and effective way The book will be of interest to academics researchers and students working in the fields of urban and rural studies urban sociology cities and communities urban and regional planning urban anthropology political sciences and migration studies human geography cultural geography urban anthropology and visual arts Pursuit of Liberation Emily A. Nemeth,Ashley N. Patterson,2022-04-01 The authors of this volume collectively demonstrate the importance of critical service learning in this historic moment as we participate in and witness ongoing struggles for justice around the world The contributors of this volume offer guidance to educators and scholars alike who are interested in designing participating in and studying the potential of alliances formed through critical service learning The volume emphasizes theoretical and historical foundations of critical service learning pressing questions facing the field exploration of outcomes of and ongoing challenges for the pedagogy and design features and larger scale models of critical service learning that can be implemented across the educational landscape of elementary secondary and higher education

ENDORSEMENTS This volume in the Advances in Service Learning Research series does not disappoint Emily Nemeth and Ashley Patterson have amassed an amazing team of authors who take readers on a rewarding journey across diverse cultural communities and educational contexts revealing the limitations of traditional service learning approaches in addressing issues of racial injustice Readers of this volume will gain a greater understanding of the rapidly evolving and maturing nature of higher education service learning pedagogy and the need to adopt more critical perspectives in the study and practice of service learning Andrew Furco University of Minnesota Pursuit of Liberation conceived and written during tumultuous times in the United States offers hope for the possibility of social justice and liberation in educational spaces The modern day brutal lynching of George Floyd an African American man by a white police officer and the COVID 19 pandemic revealed the horridness and inhumanity of a country that advertises itself as a beacon of equity and inclusion This volume is a reminder that social justice and liberation require vigilance The editors Professors Nemeth and Patterson persuade us to understand that the work of inclusion and liberation in education is complex multidisciplinary continuous and iterative Most importantly they convincingly assert that communities and educational institutions need to take bold steps toward a more just hopeful and loving world through critical service learning Shirley Mthethwa Sommers University of Mpumalanga

Multilingual classroom contexts Christa van der Walt, Verbra Pfeiffer, 2021-12-01 By far the majority of South African students get their schooling in a second language which means that our classrooms are multilingual This state of affairs is not exclusive to our country as can be seen in the many academic conferences on multilingual learning and teaching Terms like translanguaging and biliteracy appear in many articles and books that discuss the role language in education What makes the multilingual nature of our South African classrooms challenging is the fact that many learners switch from one language of learning and teaching to another at various points in their school career from home language to English or Afrikaans after the foundation phase from one language of learning and teaching to another when they move to new schools high school or tertiary institutions This book is an attempt to highlight the transitions from home to school from foundation to intermediate phase from primary to high school and from high school to tertiary institutions

Drawing for Science Education Phyllis Katz, 2017-03-23 This book argues for the essential use of drawing as a tool for science teaching and learning The authors are working in schools universities and continual science learning CSL settings around the world They have written of their experiences using a variety of prompts to encourage people to take pen to paper and draw their thinking sometimes direct observation and in other instances their memories The result is a collection of research and essays that offer theory techniques outcomes and models for the reader Young children have provided evidence of the perceptions that they have accumulated from families and the media before they reach classrooms Secondary students describe their ideas of chemistry and physics Teacher educators use drawings to consider the progress of their undergraduates understanding of science teaching and even their moral ethical responses to teaching about climate change Museum visitors have drawn their understanding of the physics of how exhibit sounds are transmitted A physician explains how the history of drawing has been a critical tool to medical education and doctor patient communications Each chapter contains samples insights and where applicable analysis techniques The chapters in this book should be helpful to researchers and teachers alike across the teaching and learning continuum The sections are divided by the kinds of activities for which drawing has historically been used in science education An instance of observation Audubon Linnaeus A process how plants grow over time what happens when chemicals combine Conceptions of what science is and who does it Images of identity development in science teaching and learning

Language and Power in Post-Colonial Schooling Carolyn McKinney, 2016-07-15 Critiquing the positioning of children from non dominant groups as linguistically deficient this book aims to bridge the gap between theorizing of language in critical sociolinguistics and approaches to language in education Carolyn McKinney uses the lens of linguistic ideologies teachers and students beliefs about language to shed light on the continuing problem of reproduction of linguistic inequality Framed within global debates in sociolinguistics and applied linguistics she examines the case of historically white schools in South Africa a post colonial context where political power has shifted but where the power of whiteness continues to provide new insights into the complex relationships between language and power and language and subjectivity Implications for language curricula and policy in contexts of linguistic diversity are foregrounded Providing an accessible overview of the scholarly literature on language ideologies and language as social practice and resource in multilingual contexts Language and Power in Post Colonial Schooling uses the conceptual tools it presents to analyze classroom interaction and ethnographic observations from the day to day life in case study schools and explores implications of both the research literature and the analyses of students and teachers discourses and practices for language in education policy and curriculum

Systematic Reviews of Research in Basic Education in South Africa Felix Maringe, 2021-04-09 Maringe ought to be commended for putting together an invaluable contribution to our understanding of research into a complex education system in South Africa This volume provides a useful foundation to the current state of education quality in South Africa including the impact of interventions It also brings to the fore challenges still facing education transformation The evidence presented which taken together lays out a coherent view of how improvements could be made Albert Chanee Head of Planning Gauteng Department of Education For too long the weight of educational scholarship produced in South Africa has been limited to that simple and standard form called the literature review Now for the first time education researchers are provided with an African based text on the concepts and methods of conducting systematic reviews In this exceptional work of editorship Felix Maringe brings together some of the leading researchers on South African education to model and demonstrate how to review a significant body of research on a chosen topic which is adjudicated strictly on the basis of the quality and efficacy of the evidence in hand I have no doubt that this remarkable book will become a standard reference for educational researchers in and beyond the African continent It will also lift the quality of educational inquiry by equipping a new generation of scholars with the capacity for doing evidence based research that compels the attention of policymakers planners and practitioners alike Prof Jonathan Jansen Stellenbosch University

The Transformative Power of Language Russell H. Kaschula, H. Ekkehard Wolff, 2020-09-10 Language has played a pivotal role in societal transformation in postcolonial Africa towards the creation of globally competitive knowledge societies however so far this role has been under researched and under estimated This volume addresses this gap in the literature by bringing together a team of globally recognised scholars to explore the effect of language on African postcolonial societies and how it has contributed to achieving mental decolonisation A range of languages are explored both imported ex colonial and indigenous African and case studies from different spheres of public discourse are investigated from universities to legal settings Demonstrating that multilingualism is a resource for rather than barrier to successful transformation this book brings the intellectualisation and institutionalisation of African languages to the forefront of development discourse and provides an insightful snap shot of how current academic research public discourse political activism and social community engagement have contributed to societal transformation in South Africa
