Lovett,Clive G. Jones,Monica G. Turner,Kathleen C. Weathers,2007-12-21 Among the most difficult problems in the life sciences is the challenge to understand the details of how ecosystems watersheds landscapes function Yet the welfare of all life not just the human species depends upon the successful functioning of diverse and complicated ecosystems each with various dimensions and compositions Central to this working is the dominance and to a major extent control of ecosystems by organisms which means that these systems are constantly changing as the component organisms change and evolve. Such changes increase the challenge to understand the functioning of ecosystems and landscapes. Moreover, understanding the interactions among the myriad components of these systems is mind boggling as there are scores of biotic probably many thousands of species when the microbial components are fully enumerated through genomics and countless abiotic ions, molecules and compounds, entities all simultaneously interacting and responding to diverse external factors to produce functional or dysfunctional environments for life. This book focuses on the problems of connectedness and ecosystem functioning. It is difficult enough to understand how an ecosystem functions when it is considered in isolation but all ecosystems are open and connected to everything else. Clearly the inputs to any ecosystem are the outputs from others and vice versa and as such the fluxes represent major if not critical points for managing or changing the overall functioning of an ecosystem or landscape. A major challenge is to find appropriate conceptual frameworks to address these complicated problems.

Transdisciplinary Challenges in Landscape Ecology and Restoration Ecology - An Anthology Zev Naveh, 2007-06-06 Capitalizing on forty years of intensive ecological studies, this anthology presents a collection of widely dispersed major publications on theoretical and practical Mediterranean, global environmental and landscape issues. Each chapter features a comprehensive study of ecological and landscape issues synthesized in the introduction and woven with autobiographical experiences. The concluding chapter calls for a transdisciplinary shift in all environmental scientific fields and particularly in landscape and restoration ecology to cope with the complex, closely interwoven ecological, socio-economical, political and cultural crises facing human society during the present crucial transition from the industrial to the post-industrial, global information age. Updating and broadening the scope of the groundbreaking Springer book on Landscape Theory and Applications by the author and Lieberman 1994, this is a unique transdisciplinary attempt based on advanced systems complexity theories which link the natural and human sciences.

Landscapes and Humanistic Geography E. C. Relph, 1981 Relph has written the kind of book that landscapes and landscape analysis have needed for some time He has undertaken a study of the several paradoxes inherent in the human reaction to the humanized landscape and has come up with a reasonably clear and thoughtful analysis of what humankind has done to itself as it manipulates the natural environment into rational landscape The book is a gem The Protected Landscape Approach Jessica Brown, Nora J. Mitchell, Michael Beresford, 2005 The traditional patterns of land use that have created many of the world's cultural landscapes contribute to biodiversity support ecological processes provide important environmental services and have proven sustainable over the centuries Protected landscapes can serve as living models of sustainable use of land and resources and offer important lessons for sustainable development Examples of these landscapes and the diverse strategies needed to maintain this essential relationship between people and the land are provided

Wetland Landscape Characterization Ricardo D. Lopez, John G. Lyon, Lynn K. Lyon, Debra K. Lopez, 2013-03-27 Wetlands are by their very nature ephemeral and transitional which makes them challenging to characterize Yet the need for characterizing wetlands continues to grow particularly as we develop a better understanding of the wealth of ecosystem services that they provide This book provides practical tools and methods to help practitioners more effectively locate identify and map the extent of wetlands and therefore better understand the importance of wetlands to society and the larger landscape The authors address jurisdictional regulatory and practical applications from the scientific engineering and lay perspectives Numerous techniques examples figures and lessons learned supply the ideas and solutions needed for solving the complex issues associated with wetlands This second edition has been updated throughout and includes more techniques examples and illustrations Biodiversity and Landscapes Ke Chung Kim, Robert D. essays by leading researchers in the archaeology of the European Iron Age pays tribute to Professor John Collis who since the 1960s has been involved in investigating and enriching our understanding of Iron Age society and crucially questioning the status quo of our narratives about the past

Challenging the Representation of Ethnically Divided Cities Giulia Carabelli,Aleksandra Djurasovic,Renata Summa,2021-05-25 The book Challenging the Representation of Ethnically Divided Cities Perspectives from Mostar questions the existing overrepresentation of Mostar as an ethnically divided city While acknowledging the existence of internal borders the chapters in this book assert that they are not solid nor fixed and by exploring how they become material or immaterial the book offers a deeper understanding of the city s complex dynamics Accordingly the chapters in this book are attentive to how ethnic divides materialise or lose importance because of socio political contingencies Events groups and spaces that promote reconciliation from the bottom up are examined not necessarily to assess their success and failures but rather to look at how they create networks gain trust and form platforms that generate novel understandings of ethnic loyalties and party memberships Further and drawing both on the empirical data and theoretical reflections this volume contributes to broader debates about divided cities by suggesting the need to engage with these cities in their complexities rather than reducing them to their ethno national divisions The book engages with socio political and economic complexities in order to shed light on how ethnic conflicts and resulting spatial partitioning are often just the surface of much more complex dynamics that are far less easy to disentangle and represent The chapters in this book were originally published in Space and Polity
