institutions in modern life yet we know almost nothing about them Experian Equifax and TransUnion are multi billion dollar corporations that track our movements spending behavior and financial status This data is used to predict our riskiness as borrowers and to judge our trustworthiness and value in a broad array of contexts from insurance and marketing to employment and housing In Creditworthy the first comprehensive history of this crucial American institution Josh Lauer explores the evolution of credit reporting from its nineteenth century origins to the rise of the modern consumer data industry By revealing the sophistication of early credit reporting networks Creditworthy highlights the leading role that commercial surveillance has played ahead of state surveillance systems in monitoring the economic lives of Americans Lauer charts how credit reporting grew from an industry that relied on personal knowledge of consumers to one that employs sophisticated algorithms to determine a person s trustworthiness Ultimately Lauer argues that by converting individual reputations into brief written reports and later credit ratings and credit scores credit bureaus did something more profound they invented the modern concept of financial identity Creditworthy reminds us that creditworthiness is never just about economic facts It is fundamentally concerned with and determines our social standing as an honest reliable profit generating person

Information Industry Factbook ,1990      Managing Privacy H. Jeff Smith,2017-10-06 The ongoing revolution in electronic information technology raises critical questions about our right to privacy As more personal information is gathered and stored at breathtaking speed corporate America is confronted with the ethical and practical issues of how to handle the information in its databases how should it be safeguarded and who should have access to it In Managing Privacy Jeff Smith examines the policies of corporations such as insurance companies banks and credit card firms that regularly process medical financial and consumer data According to Smith many companies lack comprehensive policies regulating the access to and distribution of personal data and where stated policies do exist actual practices often conflict Few organizations are willing to become leaders in the development of such policies instead formulating privacy guidelines only after being pressured by consumers the media or legislators Smith argues that as information technology advances both corporations and society as a whole must modify their approaches to privacy protection and he presents specific suggestions for developing such policies Originally published in 1994 A UNC Press Enduring Edition UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats bringing readers both historical and cultural value
