right Dislocating the Orient Daniel Foliard, 2017-04-13 While the twentieth century's conflicting visions and exploitation of the Middle East are well documented the origins of the concept of the Middle East itself have been largely ignored With Dislocating the Orient Daniel Foliard tells the story of how the land was brought into being exploring how maps knowledge and blind ignorance all participated in the construction of this imagined region Foliard vividly illustrates how the British first defined the Middle East as a geopolitical and cartographic region in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries through their imperial maps Until then the region had never been clearly distinguished from the East or the Orient In the course of their colonial activities however the British began to conceive of the Middle East as a separate and distinct part of the world with consequences that continue to be felt today As they reimagined boundaries the British produced disputed and finally dramatically transformed the geography of the area both culturally and physically over the course of their colonial era Using a wide variety of primary texts and historical maps to show how the idea of the Middle East came into being Dislocating the Orient will interest historians of the Middle East the British empire cultural geography and cartography

Accountability in education: meeting our commitments UNESCO, 2017-10-30 The second edition of the Global Education Monitoring Report GEM Report presents the latest evidence on global progress towards the education targets of the UN Sustainable Development Goals With hundreds of millions of people still not going to school and many not achieving minimum skills at school it is clear education systems are off track to achieve global goals The marginalized currently bear the most consequences but also stand to benefit the most if policy makers pay sufficient attention to their needs Faced with these challenges along with tight budgets and increased emphasis on results oriented value for money countries are searching for solutions Increased accountability often tops the list The 2017 8 GEM Report shows the entire array of approaches to accountability in education It ranges from countries unused to the concept where violations of the right to education go unchallenged to countries where accountability has become an end in itself instead of a means to inclusive equitable and high quality education and lifelong learning for all The report emphasizes that education is a shared responsibility While governments have primary responsibility all actors schools teachers parents students international organizations private sector providers civil society and the media 0 3 have a role in improving education systems The report emphasized the importance of transparency and availability of information but urges caution in how data are used It makes the case for avoiding accountability systems with a disproportionate focus on narrowly defined results and punitive sanctions In an era of multiple accountability tools the report provides clear evidence on those that are working and those that are not Back cover
